

Photos Show Only Minor Dike Damage

State Department
Again Says Any
Hits Are Accidental

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. intelligence report says bombs have hit 12 places in North Vietnam's widespread dike network, but "the damage is minor."

The State Department released the eight-page intelligence finding Friday in a follow-up to President Nixon's denial of Hanoi's charges that the United States is deliberately trying to knock out the vital water control system in the Red River delta.

But the department continued to keep secret the July 10-11 U.S. aerial photos said to support the finding. State Department officials said release of the pictures would do no good in the Washington-Hanoi exchange of allegations about the bombing, because they expect North Vietnam would only respond with more photos alleging dike damage.

Photo Coverage
The intelligence document, which State Department officials said it was based on complete photo coverage of the entire Red River delta area in northern North Vietnam, maintained:

"Photographic evidence shows conclusively that there has been no intentional bombing of the dikes. A few dikes have been hit by stray bombs directed at military-associated targets nearby."

"The damage is minor and no major dike has been reached."

"The damage can be easily repaired—in a matter of a few days—and has not been sufficient to cause any flooding."

"No damage has been observed in the Hanoi area or against the primary dike system protecting that city."

Nixon, Meany Talk at Golf

THURMONT, Md. (AP) — President Nixon settled in at his Camp David retreat today after a lengthy private conversation with AFL-CIO President George Meany, a self-proclaimed political orphan in the presidential campaign.

The White House disclosed no details of Nixon's golf-course talk Friday with Meany, who steered his powerful federation into an unprecedented position of neutrality rather than endorse either Nixon or Democrat George McGovern, nominee of labor's traditional home party.

Nixon and Meany frequently have been at odds, particularly over the President's economic policies, but the labor chief has favored the administration's handling of the Indochina war.

Nixon Hopes to Stop End-War Proposals

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is trying to choke off the momentum gathering behind end-the-war proposals in Congress by asserting that passage would jeopardize his ability to carry out U.S. foreign policy.

There was no immediate indication that Nixon's appeal, carried in letters to congressional leaders, had caused any wavering among antiwar senators or congressmen.

The Senate, for example, approved by voice vote Friday a ban on the use of fire storms and rain making as weapons of war in Indochina or elsewhere and prepared for a new vote next week on cutting off funds for American involvement in the fighting.

Republican leaders were said to be fearful that a hard cutoff would gain majority support, the Washington Post reported, and were preparing a weakened version in an effort to lure senators who hesitate to cut off funds but nevertheless favor some sort of antiwar legislation.

Larger Bills
Antiwar amendments in the Senate and House have been tacked on to larger bills covering military funding or foreign aid.

In his letter, Nixon said the various amendments "threaten

McGovern Eases Eagleton Support

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

CUSTER, S.D. (AP) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton's future as the Democratic candidate for vice president appeared to be in serious doubt today, but presidential nominee George McGovern said any decision would be made by the two candidates together.

The South Dakota senator, meanwhile, prepared to leave his vacation spot near here today to fly from Rapid City to Mitchell, his boyhood home, and Aberdeen, for a speech to the state Democratic convention. He then planned to return to Washington.

McGovern said in an interview Friday night that both he and Eagleton are deliberating "over the proper course." Earlier, McGovern had expressed "1,000 per cent" support for his running mate, who has disclosed that on three occasions between 1960 and 1966 McGovern wasn't leaving the hospital for nervous exhaustion.

Decide Together
Any decision about Eagleton's future, McGovern said, would be made "without his concurrence."

Earlier in the evening, speaking to reporters as he hopped in the dining room of the Sylvan Lake Lodge.

McGovern said, "It's Eagleton's decision to make. Whatever he decides, I'll stand by him."

Aides said the phrase "without his concurrence" was designed to make clear that McGovern wasn't leaving the issue solely up to Eagleton, who has made increasingly strong statements about his intention to remain on the ticket.

Eagleton said Friday in San Francisco that there was "no possibility whatsoever" that he would leave the ticket unless McGovern asked. He added: "I'm confident that George McGovern is not going to ask me to withdraw."

Mounting Pressure
The general impression among observers in Custer, although no one would say so directly, was that McGovern was trying to send a message to Eagleton. The mounting pressure on Eagleton to withdraw began Tuesday with his disclosure about the treatment, which included psychiatric care and shock treatments on two occasions, and has mounted since.

In San Francisco, Eagleton's staff assistant Gene Godley reiterated late Friday night that Eagleton had not decided to withdraw.

Eagleton had retired for the night and Secret Service agents refused to let newsmen approach his hotel room in San Francisco.

Godley said Eagleton had not spoken to McGovern since noon Friday.

Although McGovern said, "We ought to get together at the end of the week and see where we're at," a decision could come sooner.

They could meet as early as Sunday, McGovern is due back in Washington in the early morning hours Sunday, and Eagleton is also scheduled to return from his first campaign swing.

McGovern's statement that a change was under consideration came amid continuing rumors in Washington that a decision had already been made to drop Eagleton, an unprecedented move that would require a meeting of the newly revamped Democratic National Committee to choose a new Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Each state's national committee members would cast a vote proportionate to the state's delegates to the recent Democratic National Convention.

The new committee, still in the process of being formed, is to have 278 delegates from the 50 states.

One individual close to McGovern said he was sure the committee would approve any new choice by the party's presidential nominee.

Won't Back Down
McGovern said in discussing the situation that "I'm certainly not going to back down from my support for Sen. Eagleton," but that "both of us are deliberating and have been all week over the proper course."

McGovern told one group in the dining room that there are three factors to be considered in the situation: Eagleton's mental health, the political impact of the situation, and the fact that Eagleton failed to tell McGovern about his hospital record when the South Dakota senator selected him as his running mate.

McGovern aides said Friday night after the senator's comments that, as far as they knew, the two candidates hadn't spoken on the telephone since Thursday morning, when Eagleton told McGovern he had issued a categorical denial of a charge of drunken driving arrests.

McGovern said in discussing the situation that "I'm certainly not going to back down from my support for Sen. Eagleton," but that "both of us are deliberating and have been all week over the proper course."

Lobby Opposes Wilderness Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wilderness lobby has come out against a congressman's proposal to turn the forests of the East into true wilds untouched by civilization.

The Wilderness Society, also urging rejection of the Kyl bill, says East into true wilds untouched by civilization. The conservationists applaud his intent, but say there is better protection under present laws.

The chief sponsor of a proposed new system of primitive-type recreation areas, Rep. John Kyl, R-Iowa, says his motivation "is to begin an accelerated process of setting aside areas in the East where a person can study, and where he can come as close as possible to a true wilderness experience."

1964 Act
The 1964 Wilderness Act cannot provide "the quantity of lands I want preserved in eastern states—forest lands of the East show too much intrusion by man to qualify generally as wilderness," Kyl has told Congress.

But George Alderson of Friends of the Earth, while applauding Kyl's intentions, says the bill is anti-wilderness and its passage would kill chances of having many national forest under terms of Kyl's bill.

Congress would designate a "wild area" in the East upon recommendation by the President, and these would be managed by the federal land service within the national forest system.

McGovern's statement that a change was under consideration came amid continuing rumors in Washington that a decision had already been made to drop Eagleton, an unprecedented move that would require a meeting of the newly revamped Democratic National Com-

Reports Also From Shawano, Brown Counties

Police Spot UFO Over Waupaca, Outagamie

An unidentified flying object (UFO) was sighted last night by a Shawano County resident and at least nine lawmen from Shawano and Waupaca counties and Clintonville. No official confirmation was received from Brown and Outagamie County authorities.

The object was described as round, with a "reddish colored ring" around it.

The first sighting was made by a resident of the Gresham area about 2:08 a.m. Saturday. UFOs were reportedly sighted near Gresham in June.

The object, described as hovering about 800 feet off the ground, was followed by a squad from the Shawano County Sheriff's Department to the intersection of County Trunk G and State 29. There the policemen flashed their spotlight at it and it disappeared, heading southwest, they reported. Most of the policemen involved preferred not to be identified.

The UFO was picked up again by a squad near Caroline where it was reported heading east.

Reached Shawano

It was followed on County Trunk M until it reached the community of Shawano, where it apparently disappeared into the cloud cover.

The object was not picked up on any area radar unit, or seen by the U.S. Mail plane, and the Federal Aviation Administration refused to take action until radar had confirmed the sighting. The closest approach from the ground was approximately 2 miles, a distance from which it was described as being the size of a "volleyball" in the sky.

One Shawano sheriff's department official suggested that the object was "reflections in the sky" or an atmospheric phenomenon.

No Weather Balloons

Dale Gaddis, Federal Aviation Administration controller at Austin-Straubel Field in Green Bay, said he knew of no weather balloons aloft in the area where sightings were reported. "Anything's a possibility," he said.

The object sighted in June reportedly emitted a high-pitched tone, but in this case no such noise was reported.

A Shawano County officer who saw the UFO said that it was "very different — we don't know what's going on up here at all — I wish we did."

He said he notified Waupaca County and Clintonville and "They comically kidded me about it — until it happened there. They couldn't explain it either."

Waupaca squaws were sent to the northeast section of that county and reportedly viewed the object near Embarrass until 4 a.m.

Adrian Tomlin, of Waupaca, said that "We had several men who observed something — they thought there was something. I'm not positive, since I wasn't out there myself."

Tomlin said that four policemen viewed the UFO and reported the same type of object — brightly colored, with a reddish ring around the outside. Their size estimates, however, varied from volleyball size to the size of a baseball.

He added that Sergeant Dennis Kussman also shined a light at it and the UFO would disappear when he did so. The men "thought the object or objects were moving Kussman

Douglas May Order Delay of Ellsberg Trial

Decision on Appeal
In Pentagon Papers
Case Promised Soon

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas said he will issue a decision this weekend on a request for a temporary halt of the Pentagon Papers trial scheduled to begin Monday in Los Angeles.

Douglas heard an hour of arguments Friday from the prosecution and defense attorneys for Daniel Ellsberg and Anthony Russo and then left for his cabin, about 60 miles outside Yakima.

Ellsberg and Russo are charged with espionage in the leak to the news media of the Pentagon Papers, a top secret study of U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia. He said he would notify the U.S. Supreme Court clerk in Washington when he had reached a decision. There is no telephone at Douglas' cabin.

Drastic Action

As proceedings opened in the Yakima federal building, Douglas said he felt it would be a "drastic action" to halt the trial at this juncture. A jury has been sworn.

The unusual hearing in Yakima came at the request of defense attorneys who want the stay to allow them to petition the U.S. Supreme Court for a decision on whether they have the right to show the contents of government wiretap information on a member of the defense team.

The wiretapping issue arose Monday when the trial judge announced from the bench that the government had filed an indictment transcript of a wiretap involving either a defense attorney or a defense consultant. The government refused to tell the defense who was involved in the wiretap.

Sullivan Leads TD Drive

Cowboys Stampede Over Listless All-Stars, 20-7

By DAVE GOLDBERG
CHICAGO (AP) — Backup quarterback Craig Morton got in early and had time to do his thing. Backup quarterback Pat Sullivan got in late and his thing was to no avail.

That was the story of the 39th annual College All-Star game Friday night as Morton led the world champion Dallas Cowboys to a 20-7 win over an All-Star team that was better than expected on defense but listless on offense. It was the ninth straight victory for the pros.

Morton entered the game when Roger Staubach was shaken up late in the first half and tossed two touchdowns. Sullivan, the Heisman Trophy winner, entered the game in the final quarter and led the Stars to their only touchdown.

Devaney Questioned
Sullivan's performance—he completed eight of 15 passes for 64 yards—raised a question why didn't Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney insert him earlier to replace ex-Nebraska star Jerry Tagge, who couldn't get the Stars moving for three quarters? Devaney said he thought Tagge could move the key play was a fumble by Tagge early in the third quarter with the Cowboys holding a 10-0 lead.

Tagge was rolling right when the ball seemed to slip from his hand. He kicked it toward the sidelines, and Dallas' Bob Lilly, a soccer-style kicker, fell on it at the Star 41. Four plays later, Morton tossed 24 yards to Bob Hayes, clear over the middle, and it was 17-0.

Morton had entered the game with six minutes left in the half after Staubach was sandwiched among three All-Stars as he ran for a first down at the Stars 18-yard-line. He threw the one incomplete pass, then hit Ron Sellers, newly acquired from the New England Patriots, in the right corner of the end zone for the score.

Field Goals
The other Cowboy scores came on a 30-yard first-quarter field goal by Mike Clark and a 33-yarder on the first play of the fourth quarter by Austrian kicker Tom Fritsch.

When Sullivan entered the game down 20-0, he promptly moved the Stars 30 yards in 16 plays. The key plays were a 30-yard burst by Robert Newhouse of Houston, who becomes a Cowboy today, and a 13-yard fourth-down pass from Sullivan to Villanova's Mike Siani that hit the ball on the one-yard line. Newhouse plunged over from there.

High Spot
The high spot for the All-Stars was the play of the defense, led by LSU's Tommy Casanova, who roamed all over the secondary, batting down passes, harassing receivers, and making tackles.

Other defensive standouts for the All-Stars included backs Tom Darden of Michigan, Tom Myers of Syracuse and Willie Buchanan of San Diego State; linebackers Jeff Siemon of Stanford and Mike Keller of Michigan; and linemen Sherman White of California, Pete Lazetich of Stanford, John Mendenhall of Grambling and Larry Jacobson of Nebraska.

For the Cowboys, the game was something to yawn about. "They played well," Coach Tom Landry said of the All-Stars. "But we won the game."

Cowboys Shut Off Everything

Tagge Dejected After All-Star Game

BY LEE REMMEL
Post-Crescent News Service
CHICAGO — "I worked so hard for this game," Jerry Tagge said. His mobile, clean-cut features clearly reflecting his disappointment. "It was really frustrating."

It was a rare role for the former University of Nebraska quarterback, an invariable winner during his high school days at Green Bay West and more recently as field leader of the national champion Cornhuskers.

But now he found himself quietly analyzing the 20-7 misadventure which had befallen him and his fellow College All-Stars in Soldier Field here Friday night, courtesy of the world champion Dallas Cowboys.

"I really was optimistic that we could do something against the Cowboys," he said. "But they just shut off everything we did. Only a few short passes that we were able to complete kept us in the ball game."

That in substance was the story of the 39th midsummer production which lured a near-capacity house of 54,162 fans to the huge lakefront stadium, most of them in hopes of seeing the firststep: by the collegians since Green Bay-born Ron Vanderkelen stunned the Packers here in 1963. 28-17.

The ingredients were there: It was an ideal night for football; cloudless and in the 60s; assuring the All-Stars an opportunity to exercise the vaunted passing arms of Tagge and Auburn's Pat Sullivan, their sole hope of success against a "Doomsday Defense" which is highly inhospitable to the run.

And, particularly in the early going, the Cowboys were in a cooperative mood. Clearly off their feed, the Pokes drew three penalties on one first half series — for clipping, an illegal forward pass by the nomadic Roger Staubach and illegal procedure.

The veteran cast had too much finesse for the talented but inexperienced collegians, the option is going to revolutionize pro football.

"They didn't show us anything different," Tagge said, shaking his head. "They played the exact same defenses we expected them to play. We called the right plays in the situations that were presented and they were always there."

100 Per Cent
"They'd say, 'It's a pass, it's a pass' even before I started the count ... or 'It's a run, it's a run,' and they were right 100 per cent of the time."

"A couple of times, I almost caught 'em in a blitz. If I only had had one second more, maybe I would have, but we couldn't seem to hold 'em out long enough."

"Overall, there was a little more pressure than I'm accustomed to and a lot better pass coverage. Maybe, 'he conceded with a faint smile, 'I was a little scared, too.'"

Touching upon two of his less memorable moments, he said, "on my first fumble, I was tackled before I could hand off ... on the other one, I was switching hands on a fake and just dropped the ball."

"It was frustrating ... really frustrating."

Buchanon Not Disappointed In All-Star Performance

Post-Crescent News Service
CHICAGO — Willie Buchanan flashed a semi-facetious smile and said, "excluding one touchdown pass, I thought I had a good game."

Buchanon, the Packers' No. 1 draftee, was alluding to Craig Morton's 18-yard strike to Ron Sellers in the second quarter of the Dallas Cowboys' 20-7 victory over the College All-Stars in Soldier Field here Friday night.

Willie who officially becomes a Packer today after starting at cornerback for the collegians against the Cowboys, was inclined to be philosophical about that maneuver.

"Morton put the ball right where it was supposed to be over my head and right in Sellers' arms," he said. "It was a perfect play, there wasn't very much I could do about it."

The former San Diego State athlete, counted upon to help shore up the Green Bay defense in the years ahead, added, "I playing pro football" still should have had two interceptions, though.

"But I couldn't hang on to the ball. My hands were pretty sweaty," he said with a grin. "I was fired up, man."

Buchanon did not go empty-handed, however. His timely tip of a Roger Staubach pass led to a first quarter interception by Michigan's Tom Darden, wheeling in from behind like an outfielder.

Willie's primary assignment was to shadow the Cowboys' gifted Lance Alworth, an athlete we will be meeting again during the regular season. "He's quick and he has good moves," Buchanan noted, "about what I expected after seeing him for several years with the San Diego Chargers."

And Bob Hayes? Buchanan, reportedly 94 in the 100 himself, grinned and rejoined, "Hayes is fast, fast."

"I think it'll be a challenge. I playing pro football"

Devine Eyes Monday Night Drill

Hampton Expected Back Today

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Running back Dave Hampton was withheld from Green Bay Packer workouts a second successive day Friday with a bruised knee suffered on the second play of Wednesday night's intrasquad game.

Hampton remained in the game but the knee stiffened the next day. However, Coach Dan Devine said Hampton was expected back for today's double Running back Dave Hampton drills.

Devine said the team would have Sunday off, but that he was considering adding an evening session Monday to speed preparations for the first exhibition game here next Saturday night against the Cincinnati Bengals.

The Packers' three representatives on the College All-Star team — quarterback Jerry Tagge, defensive back Willie Buchanan and kicker Chester Marcol — will join the team this weekend, and none too soon for Devine.

"I don't like to gripe, but the loss of the All-Stars has jeopardized us and them," he said. "All the conditioning will suffer."

Cites Defense, Sullivan

Devaney Finds Solace

By JOE MOOSHL
CHICAGO (AP) — "We played a damned good football team and I think our defense did a fine job, but our offense didn't come up with the big play at the right time."

That was Nebraska coach Bob Devaney Friday night after his College All-Star football team suffered a 20-7 defeat at the hands of the world champion Dallas Cowboys.

"We didn't play as well on offense as I thought we could," said Devaney, "but I think Pat Sullivan did a great job."

Sullivan, the Heisman Trophy winner from Auburn, took over at quarterback for the All-Stars in the fourth quarter and guided them on an 80-yard march for their only touchdown of the game.

Little Fireplug
Sullivan completed five passes in the drive, which was sparked by the running of Robert Newhouse, a little fireplug from Houston who is headed for the Cowboys.

For the first three periods, Devaney went with his own Jerry Tagge, who guided Nebraska to two straight national championships.

"Jerry was moving the ball at the start of the second half," said Devaney, "but then he fumbled it and Dallas turned it into a touchdown. Really, we had the ball so little that we didn't have much time to experiment."

"They hurt us early with the blitz," continued Devaney, "and we didn't take care of it as we should have."

Sullivan Confident
Sullivan, who was drafted by the Atlanta Falcons, completed 8 of 15 passes for 64 yards and play. The ball slipped out of said, "I have confidence I can play pro ball. That drive meant a lot to me."

Sullivan admitted he got a little discouraged about not getting into the game earlier but added: "It's up to the coach to put a player in when he wants. To Jerry's a great quarterback and every time he seemed to get things going, something would happen."

Tagge was all but destroyed over his fumble which led to Dallas' second touchdown in the third quarter.

Shortly after he had gone around his own left end for 15 yards, Tagge fumbled. Bob Lilly recovered on the All-Star 41 and four plays later Cowboy Craig Morton hit Bob Hayes with a 24-yard touchdown pass to give the Cowboys a 17-0 lead.

"We made a lot of mistakes and I probably made the biggest," said Tagge. "I don't know what happened on that 8 of 15 passes for 64 yards and play. The ball slipped out of my hands and I kicked it with my knee. It was really frustrating. They showed us everything we anticipated, but we just couldn't get rolling."

Percentage Favors Brewers

Jim Lonborg Tames Tigers, 3-2

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Manager Del Crandall played percentages to perfection Friday night, costing the Detroit Tigers a chance to pad their narrow lead in the American League East.

Tommie Reynolds, pinch-hitting for pinch hitter Brock Davis with one out in the ninth inning, singled home Dave May for a 3-2 Brewer victory that snapped a five-game losing streak. A Detroit victory, coupled with Baltimore's loss to Cleveland, would have boosted the Tigers' margin to 3 1/2 games over the runnerup Orioles.

May opened the ninth with a single off loser Chuck Selbach (7-5) and was sacrificed to second. After pinch-hitter Joe Lohnd was intentionally walked, Crandall sent in the lefthanded swinging Davis to hit for winner Jim Lonborg (9-5).

Relief Ace
Tiger manager Billy Martin countered by bringing in his southpaw relief ace, Fred Scherman, who had saved both Tiger victories in a doubleheader here Thursday night. Crandall then removed Davis in favor of the righthanded swinging Reynolds, who lined a fast ball to left to drive in the winning run.

"I was looking for the fast ball, because he (Scherman) had thrown me five fast balls last night and I didn't even touch the ball," Reynolds said.

"I was lucky to hit it tonight. The way we've been going, I'm surprised he (leftfielder Willie Horton) didn't catch the ball."

The Tigers nearly took the lead in the top of the ninth, but Bill Freehan, who had opened with a single and reached second on a fielder's choice, was tagged out trying to score on Mickey Stanley's single.

Reputation Wrong
Someone suggested to Freehan that Brewer left fielder John Briggs, who fired a strike to the plate, isn't reputed to have a good arm.

"I'm not supposed to have much speed, either," the Tiger catcher said. "It was a good throw and I was out, no question about it, but you have to try to score in a situation like that."

Aurelio Rodriguez' home run in the eighth pulled Detroit into a tie after the Brewers had taken a 2-1 lead in the sixth on a walk to Briggs, a wild pitch by starter Joe Coleman, an error by Freehan and a single by Olie Brown.

Detroit scored in the first on a hit batsman, a walk and single by Freehan, and Milwaukee came back with a run in the second on a double by Brown and single by Mike Ferraro.

It was the second victory over the Tigers this year for Lonborg, whom Detroit had tried to obtain from Boston last fall before the Brewers beat them to it.

Free Swingers
"I've always had good luck with them," Lonborg said. "Their righthanded hitters are free swingers and their lefthanders try to pull everything. If I can pitch away to lefthanders like (Norm) Cash and (Dick) McAuliffe I'm all right, at least divisional leaders meet in the playoffs."

(Jim) Northrup who goes up in the middle gives me more trouble."

Lonborg said he had benefited from an extra day's rest during the All-Star break, but admitted tiring in the late innings when his fast ball stopped sinking.

"The ball Rodriguez hit was a high fast ball," Lonborg said. "I tried to sidarm him but didn't get it where I wanted."

Tigers Get Edge
If it was any consolation to the Tigers, Lonborg said he would "give them an edge" over Oakland should the current divisional leaders meet in the playoffs.

"Oakland is a better hitting ball club and I think Billy Martin will attest the Tigers aren't hitting as well as they should, but they have so much experience," Lonborg said. "They get a guy on second and they always seem to find a way to score."

"You put a youthful ball club against experience and nine times out of 10 experience wins out," he said. "Baltimore is hitting as bad as Detroit, but I think Detroit has people that can break out of slumps faster than Baltimore. I just don't think Baltimore has what it takes this year."

Foxes End Losing Streak

Norton's Blast Tips Angels

DAVENPORT, Iowa — Fred Norton slammed his ninth home run of the season to leadoff the 11th inning and give the Appleton Foxes a 5-4 Midwest League win over Quad Cities Friday night.

Norton's blast, a 375-foot shot to left center, coupled with three innings of excellent relief by Jeff Dussek ended the Foxes' four game losing streak.

Dussek pitched the last three innings and allowed only three hits and one unearned run to pick up his second win against one loss. Ed Holly went eight innings before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the eighth.

RBI Single
Norton scored the first Appleton run in the second when he reached second on a two-base throwing error by Quad Cities shortstop Ron Franks and crossed the plate after Mike Reynolds singled to center.

The Angels tied the score in the third on Frank's sacrifice fly.

Both Holly and Quad Cities starter Frank Kenyon settled down for the next few innings. Holly limited the Angels to just one run and one hit through seven innings, while Kenyon was tagged for a lone run and three hits through six.

Dan Rourke rapped a two-run single in the seventh after the Foxes loaded the bases on George Enright's infield hit, Brad Graff's walk, and Holly's hunt single.

Frank George knotted the score at 3-3 with a two-run single in the bottom of the eighth for Quad Cities.

Fourie scored on Joe Pomykala's slow roller to second in the top of the 10th inning, while Laron Matlock singled in a run to tie the score in the last of the frame.

Milwaukee Team Reaches Finals

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Milwaukee Marasco used the relief talents of Skelly Ferguson in the 12th inning Friday to reach the finals of the 34th annual state amateur baseball congress tournament.

Marasco defeated the Beloit Blues 2-1 and was paired today for the start of a best-of-three playoff series against Madison Anchor, a 1-0 victor over Pepin.

Ferguson appeared in the 12th as a relief pitcher, holding Beloit scoreless after the Blues loaded the bases with no outs. Then he singled in Marasco's half of the inning, followed by a single and a sacrifice fly which let him score the winning run.

Dave Melum doubled home Anchor's winning run.

Appleton BR Team Wins Meet Opener

Appleton opened play in the national Senior Babe Ruth tournament at Alpina, Mich., Friday with a 1-0 victory over Noblesville, Ind.

Russ Thomack pitched the win, allowing four hits and striking out five.

Appleton, which was held to two hits, scored on an error in the fifth inning. The Appleton entry was due to play again today.

Judge Seeking State Office To Lose Pay

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A judge who becomes a candidate for non-judicial office immediately forfeits both his job and his salary. State Treasurer Charles Smith said Thursday.

Smith said he will withhold Dane County Court Judge Russell Mittelstadt's salary for the period since July 11, when Mittelstadt filed nomination papers to run as a Republican for the state assembly.

The state treasurer said his decision was based on a ruling in the Wisconsin Code of Judicial Ethics which states: "A judge shall not become a candidate for a federal, state or local non-judicial office without first resigning his judgeship."

The rule is clarified by a notation to the code which calls "the appeal to the electorate by a sitting judge for a non-judicial office... inherently in conflict with the duty to impartially serve all the people."

Smith said.

"It is my considered opinion that as of July 11, 1972, you became a candidate for a non-judicial elective office and effectively resigned your judgeship," Smith told Mittelstadt in a letter.

Mittelstadt was defeated last April in his bid for re-election to the judgeship. His term would normally end Dec. 31.

Circuit Court Judge William Sachting, chairman of the Dane County Board of Judges, said Mittelstadt had served official notice that he plans to leave the bench Monday until his resignation becomes effective Aug. 31.

Food Standards To be Reviewed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's top civilian doctor says the Nixon administration will review the law against cancer-causing substances in food to see if it can be made more flexible.

The law now bans food additives if they cause cancer in laboratory test animals fed large amounts. But some officials and industry spokesmen have advocated changing the law to allow evidence showing the levels at which an additive would cause human cancer.

Office Slated For Appeals Social Security To Open Green Bay Facility for Hearings

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, has announced that plans are being made to open an office of the Bureau of Hearings and Appeals, Social Security Administration, in the Green Bay area. The only office of the kind now in Wisconsin is in Milwaukee.

The new office is to be established, Byrnes explained, to provide closer-to-home service to area residents who appeal decisions made on their Social Security claims, including certain Medicare claims. The office staff will include hearing examiners, who conduct hearings of the appealed claims.

The area to be served by the new office covers Upper Michigan, and northeastern Wisconsin including Waushara, Appleton, Marinette, Manitowish and Wisconsin Rapids.

Byrnes said the size of the staff required by the new office has not been determined nor has any exact date been set for the opening of the office. He indicated he would make a further announcement when the staffing and location arrangements are made.

Submariners Plan 3-Day Convention at Manitowoc Memorial

Men who served on the sea in submarines from around the United States and the world will converge at the Submarine Memorial at Manitowoc for three days, Aug. 1-3.

Highlighting the round of commemorative and social activities will be a luncheon at 2 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 2.

The featured speakers will be Vice Admiral Eugene P. W. Keene, commander of Naval Operations for Submarine Warfare, Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Wis., and Daniel L. R. New Albany, national president of the U.S. Submarine Veterans of World War II.

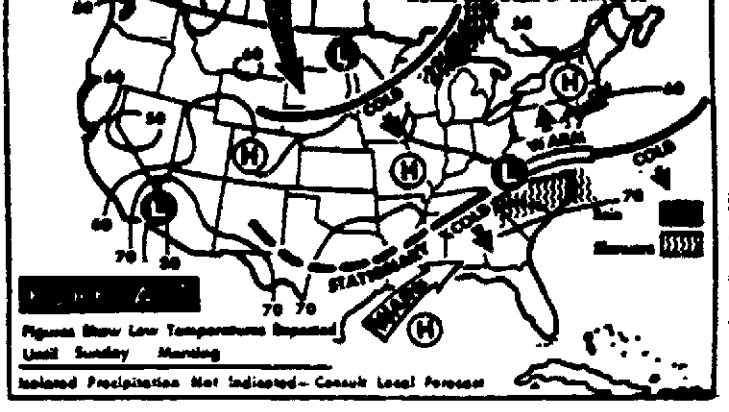

Manitowoc will be visited by the Coast Guard Cutter Sparrow for the three-day event, and the Manitowoc Sky Divers will put on an exhibition Aug. 12, parachuting into the Manitowoc River alongside the Submarine Cobia.

'Hello, Dolly' Perfect Role for Lila Anderson

NEENAH — Friday night's account for many of the show's opening performance of the laughs in strong supporting roles as Vanderghelder's down-trodden employees, out for a night of fun in New York City.

Rounding out a superior cast are Dan Sawall, Robin Richey, Pat Hawley, Daisy Wollangk, Pat Talbot, Tom Burgett, Greg Patterson, Jerry Keepers, Mike Lee, Richard L. Hamilton, and Rick Vanevenhoven.

Despite a few opening night awkwardnesses, which were director of an amateur version who can come up with an added to the fun, Anderson's actress so completely right for the "Dolly" role as Riverside Mrs. Anderson.

As everyone must know by now, "Hello, Dolly!" is the gay tale set to music of Dolly stage settings simple but effective, and musical director Tony Dornier's large orchestra is first-class.

The chorus is full of appealing sets her own cap for Horace kids whose enthusiasm is infectious.

"Hello, Dolly!" will be performed in the Riverside Park Pavilion again tonight, and Sunday and Monday nights, with four more showings on tap for next Friday through Monday. Curtain time 8:15.

Symposium Focuses On Health Finances

GREEN BAY — Noted speakers in health and insurance fields will participate in a symposium on health finance mechanisms Aug. 17 and 18 at the Beaumont Motor Hotel and the University of Wisconsin.

The symposium, open to the public, will include discussions of federally financed traditional health insurance: commercial or Blue Cross-Blue Shield programs; health maintenance and service organizations; and future health finance mechanisms.

Speakers include John D. Valente, who has been associated with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington, D.C.; C. Livergant, chairman of the board of Exendicare (Canada) Ltd., Toronto; James M. Ensign, executive director of the Marshfield Clinic; and nearly 25 other representatives.

Five Bills

A panel presentation on the five national health insurance bills being considered by the federal government is slated for Aug. 18. Symposium participants will be able to express their preference of the bills — Health Security Act, Ameriplan, Health Care Bill, Medicaid and National Health Insurance Partnership.

The results of the discussions and voting will be sent to Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., to assist in formulating the health insurance bill to be generated in the House Ways and Means Committee.

Further information may be obtained from the Northeastern Wisconsin Health Planning Council, 828 Cherry St., Green Bay 54301.

Beware of Child Publicity Photo Deal, State Warns

MADISON — "If an out-of-charge advance fees. He says state agency says it will publish your child's photo in its register when clients are being paid for to expose your child to nation wide publicity and possible large fees from advertisers."

Even though an agency may claim that your child's photo, when published, will be seen by hundreds of advertisers, advertising agencies and newspaper and magazine publishers throughout the U.S. and Canada — it is highly unlikely that payment of large fees from advertisers will result," Crist emphasized.

His advice: "If someone charges a fee to have children's photos printed in their child's register, you run the risk of paying only for seeing the model or talent agencies do not this sales gimmick."

Your Problems VD Questions Stump Teacher

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a high school teacher who is doing summer instructing. I am totally ill equipped to answer some of the questions asked by 15- and 16-year-olds who come to me, scared to death that they have VD. They refuse to go to the family doctor for fear their parents will find out, and are trying to treat themselves, which I know is a terrible mistake.

I have read in the newspapers that VD has reached epidemic levels in this country. The reason, of course, is that The Pill has increased promiscuity and the old-fashioned protective devices are scoffed at. Will you please, Ann Landers, print in your column the symptoms of VD in language high school kids can understand? They need to know what to look for. Then tell these kids what to do about it. I cannot think of another writer who has anywhere near your teen-age readership. Bless you. — Newsday Reader in Long Island

Dear Reader: I devoted an entire column to this subject a few years ago. A few newspapers refused to print it on the grounds that it was "too clinical." I hope those papers will recognize that VD is now a national crisis and even though the information will not make for appetizing breakfast reading it may be of lifesaving importance to millions of young people. Here it is:

The most common form of VD is gonorrhea. In the early stages, females almost never feel pain or discomfort. It is entirely possible for a woman to infect a man and not be aware of it. In the advanced stages of gonorrhea, however, a woman experiences severe pain in the lower abdomen, a heavy mucous burning sensation during urination, and profuse discharge. Treatment for both female and male is simple and effective (large doses of penicillin) and it should be sought immediately upon appearance of symptoms. Gonorrhea, if untreated, can cause sterility, arthritis and heart disease.

Syphilis has indeed reached epidemic proportions because The Pill has made "old-fashioned" contraceptives passe.

Early syphilis is usually manifested by a skin eruption which resembles a cold sore. The first eruption usually appears on the genitals a few weeks after contact. Several weeks later, eruptions may appear anywhere on the body, including the face. Syphilis, when treated within four or five months, can usually be cured within a matter of weeks. Untreated syphilis can result in blindness, brain damage, total incapacitation and death.

I urge every individual who suspects he may have VD to go to a doctor or to the county or city health department for an examination. VD will not disappear if ignored. When the first set of symptoms fades away, many people believe they "wore out" the disease, but this is not true. It has only gone underground and will erupt later in some crippling form.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A close friend has taken up painting as a hobby. For our wedding anniversary she painted an enormous canvass and went to the expense of having it framed. It does not fit in with our decor and is not what we would have selected for our home.

She expects us to hang it in a place of honor. We value her friendship and wouldn't offend her for the world. What should we do? — Beached

Dear B.: Hang the canvass in a "place of honor" for a couple of weeks. Move it to a less conspicuous place for another month. The following month, move it to the attic, storeroom, summer home, or winter cabin — you get the idea.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelop to this newspaper.

Advisory Group To ADVOCAP Gets Under Way

OSHKOSH — The Winnebago Planning and Development Advisory Committee to the local community action program met for the first time this week. The group, composed of representatives of low-income persons, and community government officials, will assist the ADVOCAP program.

Mrs. Penny Christenson was elected as a member at large to fill one of the five remaining seats on the committee.

Following the meeting, those members representing the poor elected their two representatives to the ADVOCAP board of directors. They are Mrs. Ruth Kron and Mrs. Barbara LePack. Mrs. LePack is past chairman of the Winnebago Task Force for Community Action.

The ADVOCAP board of directors will have its annual meeting at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Hotel Rellaw in Fond du Lac.

4 Boys Benefit From Judge's Last Day Mood

Dohr Withholds Delinquency Findings In Theft Ring Case

Although "appalled" by the nearly $3,000 damage they had caused, Outagamie County Juvenile Court Judge Raymond P. Dohr Friday withheld delinquency findings against four Appleton teen-agers and commented that he was probably going easy on them because this is his last day as judge.

The boys, ages 15, 16 and 17, were charged in connection with what a detective said probably was the largest single burglary-theft-vandalism ring in recent Appleton history.

Dohr indicated that he was acting, in large part, on the recommendations of the Outagamie County Department of Social Services which will have supervision of the youths for one year. They will have to make restitution totaling $7,838 during their period of formal supervision.

Dohr said that when the cases were first before him, he considered the boys' actions "one of the most serious things that ever happened in the City of Appleton."

Last Day

He "probably should send all four boys away" (to Lincoln State School for Boys), Dohr guessed. But he later explained that "This is my last day of sitting as Juvenile Court judge. Maybe that's why I'm a little easy on these boys."

Dohr must retire July 31 because he is 70 years old. Monday normally would be juvenile court day, but he apparently does not intend to hold court next Monday. He has been on vacation for most of July.

Dohr, after saying he probably was not being harsh enough on the boys, told them he hoped they didn't betray his confidence or that of their attorneys and parents. The boys, in court as a group, each had an attorney.

"I only hope I haven't made a mistake here this morning," Dohr remarked. He made each of the boys stand and express his regrets for his acts and give some assurance he would get into no further trouble.

Hold Cases Open

Corp. Counsel William Schuh, after brief testimony by a social worker, suggested that the cases be held open for one year. If, after the year, the boys haven't gotten into any more trouble, the cases can be dismissed, Schuh said. However, they could be brought back into court for discipline on any illegal actions during their supervision, he added.

A social worker assigned to do an investigation on two of the boys, said one of them will be evaluated at Winnebago State Hospital. He said his initial reaction was to ask that the boy be sent to Lincoln.

A second social worker, who made investigations on the other two boys, was not in court. He recommended one of his two clients receive only six months supervision, because of his limited role in the damage spree. However, Dohr said that, considering the seriousness of the offenses, six months of supervision was too short.

Sgt. George Weaver of the Appleton Police Department's juvenile aid bureau said the four boys were involved in a total of 21 burglaries last January and February. However, there were many more charges if the resulting thefts and vandalism were counted separately. The boys' targets were mostly homes on the city's north side.

There was heavy water damage to some of the homes, caused when the boys turned on water and plugged drains.

The boys were in court last spring, but their cases were continued to allow time for determination of restitution. The boys have been in the custody of their parents. None had prior juvenile records.

Individual restitution amounts, as determined by police, are $2,778.46, $2,699.83, $2,115.63 and $244.69.

Weaver told the court there is a dispute over what is owed the occupant of one house vandalized by the boys. The owner claims damages of $4,100 and the insurance company will pay only $520. The lower figure was used by the court. Dohr said the homeowner could start a suit if agreement could not be reached.

scaffolding and a bucket on the end of a boom, paint trim on the church's steeple. The group also installed eave-troughs and built new sidewalks around the parsonage.

No Bids Taken

UW Admits Violating

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin has violated laws on purchasing and construction when it made "extensive use" of an add-on procedure to sidestep a 1929 law requiring sealed bids for purchasing contracts of more than $3,000.

The UW sidestepped statutes on several occasions when it thought it was "in the public interest," Robert Gentry, associate to UW vice president and controller Reuben Lorenz, said Friday.

Two state bureau officials responsible for reviewing purchasing transactions denied statutory procedures had been ignored with their knowledge.

"The big questions have been a matter of interpretation," purchasing director John Short said. His bureau must approve requests before agencies are allowed to buy goods or services.

Short said his bureau has had a policy of approving requests of less than $3,000 even when the request was one of several involving the same project.

"The question is," he said, "what constitutes one transaction?"

Review Before Payment Bureau of Finance director John F. Rogan said his staff has approved no purchase contracts which it knew violated statutes.

The finance bureau gives a financial review to purchase vouchers before the state pays its already attending the classes.

The planned fashion show will be held before and after model-disclosed earlier this week in a report by the Legislative Audit Bureau. The bureau submitted the report to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey and recommended "immediate corrective action."

UW was cited a number of times. The bureau said UW made "extensive use" of an add-on procedure to sidestep a 1929 law requiring sealed bids for purchasing contracts of more than $3,000.

Weight Watchers Plan 'Farewell Fat' Show

CHILTON — A "farewell fat" luncheon and fashion show is being planned for mid-August by the Weight Watchers International Program of Calumet County.

The weight watchers program will be holding a free informal meeting at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Aug. 3 at the conference room at Calumet Memorial Hospital, according to Mrs. Merton Charnay, instructor.

The weight watchers program is expanding and has scheduled a night class which will begin on August 3 for those who find it inconvenient to attend the morning class.

Persons living in Chilton, Hixson, Britton, Stockbridge, New Holstein, and Kiel areas are already attending the classes.

The planned fashion show will be held before and after model-disclosed earlier this week in a food products in fiscal 1970-71 without taking bids. It paid for the products in separate installments of less than $2,900, the bureau said.

No Deceit Intended

"There was no intent here to deceive," Gentry said. "These things were done with the full knowledge of the officials."

The audit bureau cited at least two construction projects at UW-Oshkosh and one at UW-Platteville which had been contracted in violation of a state law requiring Lucey's approval of projects costing more than $2,500.

The two Oshkosh projects also violated a law requiring State Building Commission approval of construction costing more than $15,000, the bureau added.

"There have been examples in the past which we acknowledge," Gentry said. "A matter of emergency occasionally arises where there is no other way to get this done without bending the rules a little."

"The governor is a very busy man, and it's not always possible to get quick approval from him," he said.

Laws Outdated

Gentry said laws are bulky and outdated, causing frustration and sometimes economic disadvantages by long delays.

Asked if UW had ever tried to propose new legislation instead of working around existing laws, Gentry said it has not.

"I would guess that we've not been aggressive enough in this area," he said.

Gentry said UW officials met with the audit bureau before the report was made public, and agreed to stop actions which don't conform with law.

"You can make the general statement that we have reached an agreement that we will make changes consistent with the audit bureau's recommendations," he said.

Revise Statutes

Gentry said he felt the statutes should be revised to require the governor's approval of construction only when it would cost more than $10,000.

He said the state director or purchasing should be authorized to exempt from gubernatorial approval certain minor construction requests.

Although Short denied his bureau had knowingly approved illegal transactions, he said certain purchases may not have been reported to his office at all.

"Looking at the size of the figures involved in some transactions in the audit bureau's report," Short said, "I feel we certainly would have taken action if we knew about them."

In other cases, Short said, the purchasing bureau approved transactions which had been open to bidding although there was no "highly formalized, sealed-bid procedure."

In other cases, the bureau approved add-on purchasing because the purchases were spread over such a long period that the bureau did not detect them, Short said.

Runaway Stock Car Injures Two

KAUKAUNA — A routine Division St., Appleton, who suspected demolition race turned into a tained a broken pelvis, a broken major accident, and very nearly leg, a severe cut to the right a tragedy, at Wisconsin International Raceway about 10:30 p.m. ankle.

Thursday, when a stock car left the quarter-mile paved track, causing extensive damage to two other vehicles and seriously injuring two persons.

The car, driven by David Van Elzen, 17, of 630 Lamers Road, Kimberly, reportedly left the track at a speed estimated at 60 m.p.h. and hit the east retaining wall, a crash truck, and an ambulance from Larry's Ambulance, 116 S. Weimar St., Appleton.

Taken by private ambulance to Kaukauna Community Hospital was James A. Kobussen, 27, 903 W. Third St., Kimberly, an ambulance attendant who suffered a broken collar bone, a broken right shoulder, a possible concussion, and possible internal injuries and torn knee ligaments.

Good Condition

Kobussen was transferred to St. Elizabeth Hospital about 1:30 a.m. today, where late this morning he was reported in satisfactory condition.

Taken by private ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital was Erwin Krueger, 50, of 827 N.

He was reported in fair condition this morning after emergency surgery.

Van Elzen was treated at Kaukauna Community Hospital for shock.

According to Outagamie County police, Van Elzen said his car had been hit while he was rounding a corner on the quarter-mile track, that he hit his head on his car's roll bar, and that everything got fuzzy.

He said he tried to get off the track and was pushing hard on the brake all the way.

Two witnesses said they saw the stock car leave the quarter-mile track and that it seemed to be gaining speed.

They added that the car hit the retaining wall, the crash truck, the ambulance, and two persons.

A policeman at Kaukauna Community Hospital, who talked with Van Elzen, said Van Elzen instead of the brake as he was leaving the track.

According to a report from Larry's Ambulance Service, Kobussen and Gary Krause, 813½ W. Wisconsin Avenue, Appleton, the driver of the ambulance, were standing outside the ambulance, which was parked on the half-mile track when the car came off the retaining wall, struck the crash truck, a glancing blow, and then hit the ambulance.

Jumped Out of Way

Krause jumped out of the way and was not injured, while Kobussen was hit by the car and thrown about 60 feet. He was knocked unconscious.

Krueger was apparently standing near the crash truck when he was hit by the car and thrown against either the crash truck or the ambulance.

Larry's reported damage to the ambulance at between $2,500 and $3,000.

A worker at the track said about nine cars were entered in the demolition race. He said about five of them were still running some five minutes into the race when the accident occurred.

Damage apparently was confined mostly to the crash truck and the ambulance, with minor damage to the retaining wall.

No estimate of the damage to the crash truck, which is owned by the raceway, was immediately available.

Brillion Youth Receives Award At YARC Meeting

BRILLION — Bev Tesch received the first annual outstanding Project Award at the fifth Wisconsin Youth-Association for Retarded Children Conference last weekend on the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point campus.

Miss Tesch, who was cited for her local group's drama-dance productions this spring, attended the conference with Carrie Coonen, Anne Mullis and Diane Schwahn.

The conference made film and panel presentations and scheduled workshops. A study of institutional life and state facilities showed the current trend toward residential housing units for the retarded in the community as an alternative means of care.

A new constitution and bylaws for the Wisconsin YARC were approved in a business session last Saturday.

Shiocton Board Officers Named To Another Term

SHIOCTON — All officers of the board of education were re-elected this week at the group's organizational session following the annual meeting.

Officers are Milan Ratsch, president; Norman Deferding, treasurer, and Norman Knorr, clerk.

Jack Tackman is the only new member on the board. He replaces Jack Lammers who did not seek re-election.

The remaining members are George Olson, Ronald Voight and Robert Lee.

Back to Detention

An Appleton youth who has spent much of his teen-age life in institutions, learned Friday afternoon that he is headed for another one.

The 16-year-old, who had been in juvenile detention, appeared in Outagamie County Juvenile Court and pleaded guilty of taking a station wagon owned by Donald Schwab, 802 W. Spring St., on May 5; the theft of a battery and other items from the Schwab car; aiding and abetting in the burglary of the James O'Connell home, 1626½ N. Oneida St., on May 5; aiding and abetting in the theft of a safe containing $1,050 from the home; aiding and abetting in damaging the safe by cutting off the door; entering a Karras Vending Co. truck May 7, stealing 70 packs of gum from the truck; burglarizing a garage at 2712 N. Viola St., July 29, and the theft of a motorcycle from the garage.

Committed Himself

A detective said the boy walked away from Winnebago State Hospital on May 21. He had committed himself to the hospital for drug abuse treatment. Police located the boy in Appleton last week.

The boy made his first appearance in Juvenile Court in 1968 at which time he was placed on supervision. A year later he was found delinquent, his custody was transferred to the state and he was sent to the State School for Boys at Wales. He has been in other institutions, police said.

The boy told Judge Raymond P. Dohr, "I was doing a fairly decent job for a while. I managed to stay out longer than in the past. I don't know if it will do any good, but I think I've learned."

Dohr said he'd like to help the boy, but the youth already is under custody of the state, so he had to remand him to his parole agent.

Dohr found the youth delinquent again and ordered him returned to juvenile detention pending what probably will be his transfer to Lincoln by parole officials.

Bay Algae Growth Is Dangerously Extensive

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Scientists report algae growth has been more extensive than ever in discharges, apparently coming Lake Michigan's Green Bay from industries along the Fox River and from Green Bay's municipal and industrial effluents.

"There is a significant decline in the bay's water quality and this should be corrected as soon as possible," University of Illinois biologist Larry Vanderhoef said.

"Once the bay goes too far downhill, it will be very difficult and expensive to reverse the slide," he added.

Wisconsin Has Rabies Increase

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The number of rabies cases in Wisconsin this year has already surpassed the total recorded for 1971. University of Wisconsin veterinarian R.E. Hall said Friday.

Figures compiled by the state laboratory of hygiene show 90 cases between January and mid-July, 1972. Hall said, compared with 89 cases in 1971.

The incidence of animal rabies cases in Wisconsin "follows a national trend upward in recent years" and stressed the need for a more active immunization program for dogs, Hall said.

"It seems funny they (FVTI) have to come to us for money with all the money that's going to state education programs," one member said.

Finance Panel to Study Content, Not Just Project Costs

A closer look at program content, rather than just discussing costs, was promised by the Outagamie County Board so that we are involved in purchasing, Miller said, "but others feel that if the item is budgeted the committee of jurisdiction can make the purchase."

Members of the committee also indicated they planned an in-depth look at service contracts the county has with office time to do that is when the and other equipment suppliers, budget is drawn up.

Schreiter also asked the committee to take a detailed look into the various service contracts the county has on equipment. Noting current billings of $1,932 on two service contracts, Schreiter said, "We must be spending nearly $20,000 a year on these service agreements."

A definite bidding policy on insurance was asked by Supv. John Marzion, who noted that the county pays insurance premiums of about $113,000 annually.

The committee voted to seek bids on a $10.5 million fire and extended coverage policy on various county buildings which expires Aug. 31. Present premium on that policy is $14,144.

Student Aid Programs Seek Huge Increase in Tax Funds

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A $43.1 million jump from the current $32.3 million state-federal spending level of the 1971-73 biennium.

The half dozen year old agency, which started by administering a few million dollars in student aid programs, asked for state tax funding totaling $18.1 million, a jump of $7 million over the current level of state tax spending.

New Program

James Jung, staff head of the agency, said that the state tax spending hike actually represented a net increase for new programs of only $4.1 million or 37 per cent because of the built in budget increases caused by inflationary trends and traditional guaranteed spending increases.

The overall budget, combining state and federal spending, would climb $10.8 million in the 1973-75 biennium from the current $32.3 million level. The HEAB proposal calls for $7 million of the $10.8 million hike to come directly from state taxpayers; the remainder would come from federal revenues and receipts of the agency on past loans and similar programs.

The board also voted to "vigorously" resist a proposal being made to the Merger Implementation Committee that the University of Wisconsin Systems board of regents be given veto power over HEAB decisions.

Merger Committee

The merger committee was created by the law which merged the two state public university systems last fall. The recommendation, coming from a subcommittee of the merger group, is the outgrowth of considerable opposition within the UW System to new policies adopted by the HEAB during the past 18 months, which regents and UW System administrators contend have taken educational decisions out of the hands of UW System personnel and handed them to HEAB.

Basic budget decisions made by HEAB include:

- An agreement to cut base costs by $50,000 per year during the coming biennium to meet Lucey's demand for productivity savings.
- The listing of an educational manpower development program as the lowest priority program of HEAB, followed by state tuition reimbursement program, to meet another Lucey budget demand.

Safety Commission to Investigate Conditions On Roads in County

I-S Elects Incumbent, Two New Members

An assessment of highway safety conditions in Outagamie County will be undertaken as the first project of the newly created Outagamie County Safety Commission which replaces an old safety council and a joint review board.

Stanley Arnold, county highway safety coordinator, was named chairman of the commission at its first meeting this week. Representatives from various state agencies involved with highway safety met with the commission.

Arnold said it probably will take about two months to complete the safety assessment. Priorities will then be established, Arnold said.

SHIOCTON — A $973,061 budget, down $87,501 from last year, was approved this week by the annual school board meeting.

To meet the proposed spending package will require a tax levy of $20 per $1,000 of equalized valuation. This is the same figure as last year.

Increases reflected in the budget are primarily for instruction, up $16,300; and debt service, up $23,000. However, the capital outlay will take a drop of $123,000. This is due to new addition last year to the high school.

During the business session free textbooks were approved and the school will furnish Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic Association insurance for all students.

The board also was granted permission to borrow money on a short term loan if it is deemed necessary for the operation of the system until state aids become available.

Salaries were held constant for board members. They will receive $300 for regular meetings throughout the year, receive 10-cents per mile when using the car on official business and $10 when attending a meeting outside the district.

Makeup days, when school has been closed due to weather or other unforeseen reasons, will be left up to the board. It was generally agreed that Saturday was not a good day for makeup.

Dohr Is Leaving His Mark

Raymond P. Dohr

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Judge Raymond P. Dohr has been part of two major innovations in Outagamie County's judicial system.

He was the county's first corporation counsel, being named by the county board in December, 1949. He assumed the new post Jan. 1, 1950, to handle the county's civil legal affairs.

And he was the first judge of Outagamie County Court.

Last of Series

Branch 3, which was created in 1961.

But Dohr's record of service to the county dates back even farther. He was appointed district attorney in 1934 and was elected to full, two-year terms in 1937 and 1939.

Dohr has to retire Monday because he is 70 years old. He hopes to find several reserve judge appointments to help ease into full retirement. He feels part-time work will be easy to find because of the big caseloads in many of the courts.

Juvenile Work

Dohr, whose principal duties in Branch 3 included juvenile cases and small claims work, will be succeeded by R. Thomas Cane, 33, assistant district attorney since 1969. Cane, an interim appointee of Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, takes office Tuesday.

Dohr was admitted to the Wisconsin bar in 1925.

He entered military service in 1940 and went overseas in 1942. He participated in the African campaign, took part in invasions of Italy and France and fought in Germany and Austria.

His battle stars numbered six and he earned several medals, including the purple heart, for wounds suffered at Cassino, and the medal for bravery.

Dohr became the first corporation counsel north of Milwaukee County. Since then many other counties have followed suit.

He was county GOP chairman in 1952 and 1953, and was president of the Outagamie County Bar Association. He was active in Rotary and Elks. After World War II he helped organize the 32nd Division of the Wisconsin National Guard, in which he held the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Ready to Retire

Dohr said he was "ready to retire" and he agreed the mandatory retirement age should be 70 for Wisconsin judges.

He also saw the need for a fourth county judge, a proposal forwarded as a solution to easing the case overloads in local courts.

Dohr's court has been one of those that experienced a case jam up. He said that besides juvenile cases, he has had to handle many Circuit Court type litigations of a civil nature.

Dohr, in response to question, thought it was desirable to have a judge doing only juvenile court work. "You've got to do a lot of work with children to get them through the rough areas," he exclaimed.

The late Judge Stanley Staidl handled the juvenile cases before Branch 3 court was created by the State Legislature.

Dohr could be remembered as a soft-spoken magistrate who would send a boy or girl to an institution only if there was no place else.

"Sometimes I think I was too easy," he told this reporter, "but I don't think it hurt anything."

Continent-Wide Evangelism Program Explained

A continent-wide evangelism program, known as "Key 73" in which 130 denominations are participating, is beginning to earn a name for itself, with more and more local churches making a commitment to it.

The goal of the program is to "proclaim and demonstrate witness and minister through word and deed the Gospel" throughout the continent.

"It is not designed to launch another ecumenical movement or set up new ecclesiastical structures to force denominations or groups into some new organic church union," the literature states.

A number of denominations have already voted to back the effort in the state during recent Wisconsin conventions.

Locally, numerous clergymen have gotten together and discussed preliminary plans, with the Rev. James Nelson, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, heading the effort.

Forms Sent

Forms asking pastors for their views and whether they intend to cooperate in the effort have been sent out. When they are returned, a working committee will be established to represent each participating congregation, which will include laymen.

The committee is expected to meet at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 22 at Trinity to lay plans for future activities.

Key 73 has three principles of operation — separate development of programs on the local level, simultaneous carrying out of the programs in 1973 for maximum impact, and cooperative use of the mass media as the force to prepare the way for future programs.

The program is slated to be carried out through six phases: — "Calling the continent to repentance and prayer," running from Advent, 1972, through Epiphany, 1973. A launch period with local mass media emphasis on the need for prayer, with emphasis on Jan. 7 (launch Sunday) for simultaneous covenant services, begins the program.

— "Calling all to the Word of God," a sharing and study of the scriptures with distribution of the Bibles on Thanksgiving and Easter, plus interdenominational Bible study during Lent.

— "Calling all to proclaim years ago when a number of churches by requesting a decisive response through youth out-denominations responded favorably to an editorial in "Christianity Today," calling for a pooling of manpower and resources to carry the word to the masses.

The first meeting was held in a motel near the Francis Scott Key Bridge in Washington, D.C., hence the name, "Key 73."

The organizational structure for it is minimal. A central committee consisting of one representative from each participating denomination or group is the decision-making body.

A 16-man executive committee for interim action was elected by the central committee. In addition, there are 10 subcommittees to take care of the program development and reviews, resources, mass media, and finance.

16 on Council

The executive office has only four people on its staff with the Rev. Dr. T.A. Raedeke, of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod as the executive director. Working with him is an administrative assistant and two secretaries.

Members of the executive committee are: Dr. John F. Anderson Jr., of the Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Atha J. Baugh, American Baptist; Dr. Paul Benjamin, Christian Churches and Churches of Christ; Dr. Bill Bright, Campus Crusade for Christ; John A. Brown, Christian Churches and Churches of Christ; Dr. Kenneth Chafin, Southern Baptist; Bishop Henry Ginder, Brethren in Christ; the Rev. Joe Hale, United Methodist; Canon Leslie Hunt, Anglican of Canada; Dr. John L. Knight, Church of the Nazarene; The Rev. Nathaniel Linsey, Christian Methodist Episcopal; Dr. Victor Nelson, Billy Graham Evangelistic Association; Rev. Wesley Smedes, Christian Reformed Church; Dr. Gaius H.J. Thibodeaux, African Methodist Episcopal; Col. John D. Waldron, The Salvation Army; and Dr. Thomas F. Zimmerman, Assemblies of God.

The Rev. Oscar J. Naumann, president of the Wisconsin Evangelical Lutheran Synod, will be the guest preacher at the late service.

A special program reliving the events in the life of Brandt has been scheduled at 2 p.m. The choir will participate in this. A buffet and a reception will follow.

Also expected to attend are David Brandt, Milwaukee, and Mrs. Jeanine Olson, of California, the other children of Pastor and Mrs. Brandt, former teacher at the St. Paul School.

The pastor is a native of Milwaukee and son of the Rev. and Mrs. Herman J. Brandt. He was graduated from Northwestern College, Watertown, in 1919 and the Wisconsin Lutheran Seminary in Wauwatosa in 1922.

He accepted a call to St. Paul as assistant pastor after his ordination and was installed here by the Rev. T.J. Sauer, the pastor, with whom he worked for 13 years.

In 1935 he was called by St. Paul to become its pastor, as it had been requested by Sauer, with Sauer remaining in the ministry with him until 1941.

For 13 years, Brandt carried the work load by himself and then was assisted by vicars.

The congregation called the Rev. Hoge William Bergholz as an associate pastor for St. Paul in 1965.

Brandt was baptized, confirmed, ordained and married by his father.

Under the leadership of the pastor, the congregation has recorded numerous milestones. Most notable among them have been the farsighted purchase of property, first in 1936, and again in 1957, and in 1963, giving the church a size which encompasses nearly a whole square block.

The church was among the 78 churches expected to attend the Wisconsin Synod congregations which began laying plans for B.E. State Advises Businesses on New Safety Act

Some State Laws Already Tougher Than Federal Act

Post-Crescent News Service
GREEN BAY — Two programs relating to the new U.S. Occupational Safety and Health Act were in sharp contrast to each other Thursday.

The first, held at a restaurant during the day, drew more than 300 persons.

The second, a public hearing at a junior high school at night, drew five persons.

The program at the restaurant was sponsored by the Wisconsin Manufacturers' Association to update manufacturers on the contents of the act.

The hearing at the school was called by the State Department of Industry, Labor and Human Relations to formulate recommendations on whether the new act should be enforced by state or federal officials.

91 Inspectors

Larry Mollers of the DILHR, told the manufacturers group that the department in which he works has 91 inspectors assigned to inspect possible violations of the state industrial safety law who also would be enforcing the federal code if the state legislature accepts the enforcement responsibility.

Presently, his department operates with a budget of $850,000, and if the state joins the federal program, it will be eligible for matching funds of approximately $800,000 he said.

Pointing to the problems of safety, Mollers reported that in the past three years Wisconsin has been recording approximately 40,000 on-the-job accidents annually and in 1969 there were 136 fatalities, 122 in 1970 and 141 last year.

Accidents Cause Time Loss

Based on statistics, he said a manufacturer can expect 1 of 26 employees to miss at least four days of work a year because of accidents, while in construction the rate is 1 of 15 employees out for a period of four days.

He also noted that Wisconsin has had some form of safety laws since 1911, and "some today are more stringent than the federal law."

He also stressed responsibility, and stated that all employers, regardless of the number of persons in their employ, will be held responsible for the safety of both their employees and visitors to their buildings.

Carlton Heise, compliance safety and health officer for the state, advised the industrial group "to follow the code that is the more stringent" whether it be the state or federal rules.

Housekeeping Important

He added that internal housekeeping is one of the areas where the largest number of violations occur and urged concentration on this problem.

"However, to meet these problems, we must have the cooperation of both the employer and employee," Heise said.

At the Franklin hearing, the few persons who participated agreed they supported enforcement of the new code by state inspectors.

The Green Bay hearing was the third held in the state by the DILHR and four more are planned.

Recommendations from the hearings will go to a legislative advisory committee which is scheduled to make a final decision at an Aug. 31 meeting in Madison.

This decision will go to the Legislative Council which in turn will determine whether the entire state Legislature will act on the enforcement question.

Wisconsin has until Dec. 28 to advise the federal government on how it will participate in the national safety program.

Millionaire Pleads For Kidnaper Contact

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — The exact amount sought in a ransom note left by the two kidnaper socialites is appealing to her abductors to contact him from her home Thursday. An FBI agent said the figure was "about $1 million" and a Hennepin County official said it was "close to $1 million."

Battery Brings Jail Sentence

Bear Creek Man Found Guilty in Tavern Fight

Robert Young, 31, Bear Creek, was sentenced Thursday to four months in Outagamie County jail with Huber Law privileges when he appeared before Judge Nick F. Schaefer in County Court Branch 2.

Young was found guilty Tuesday on a charge of battery, which stemmed from an early Monday fight at Don's Welcome Inn, Bear Creek.

In that incident, Young reportedly hit his ex-wife Barbara, 21, in the face with a beer glass, cutting her nose. He then threw her to the floor and kicked her several times.

The fight started after another patron of the tavern apparently offered to buy Mrs. Young a drink.

Young left the scene in his car, but was apprehended a short time later by county police.

Young was previously sentenced to a year probation, which followed a May 2 incident at the same tavern.

Young had been found guilty of disorderly conduct and battery against Mrs. Young, who resides at the tavern, which is owned by her father, Don Smith.

tried to photograph it but was unsuccessful.

Tomlin said that Waupaca did not receive any citizens' reports of sightings, but said, "We'll probably get some when they read about it."

Could be Star

He added that the men "didn't think it was a star at the time — but later on they said it might be a star."

A Clintonville policeman, who asked not to be identified, said "I don't know what it was. It was just a shiny object in the sky." After Shawano County notified him, he looked "and it was there — but we don't know what it was."

He added, "I would swear it would move, but I wouldn't make a statement to that effect — everybody would think you're off your rocker." He described the object the same as Waupaca and Shawano officers, and added, "This sounds wild, I know." There could have been more than one UFO, he said, and added, "I don't know — none of it makes sense — not a darned whit of sense."

Tribal Genocide Rages in Burundi

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Burundi government has acknowledged to a U.N. mission that 80,000 persons have died and 40,000 have fled the East African country in disturbances that started last spring.

Reports from the area said more than 100,000 of Burundi's 3½ million population have been slain this year. Most of the reports said the killings were reprisals by the ruling Tutsi tribe against an unsuccessful coup by the Hutu tribesmen who make up the majority of the country's population.

The government has denied this, however, and said the Hutu were aiming to exterminate the Tutsi.

Big Mac's Dye Job Fools Judges

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — The 1,210 pound steer that became the scandal of the 1972 National Western Stock Show here will go on the auction block.

Judge George M. McNamara declared Friday that Big Mac is of unknown ownership, clearing the way for the Colorado Brand Commission to sell the animal.

Big Mac was entered in the Denver show as an Angus. But, after winning grand champion ribbons, Big Mac's glossy black coat faded to white.

Questions about Big Mac's lineage arose. Charges that Big Mac was a white Charolais with a black dye job were leveled.

Rex Miller, 16, of Alta, Iowa, has since disclaimed ownership of the animal, saying the steer MacDonald's has doesn't resemble the one he entered in the National Western.

Gas Explosion Shatters Store, 5 Die in Algiers

ALGIERS (AP) — A gas explosion next door to Algiers' largest department store today killed five persons and injured 30, the interior ministry reported.

The blast was believed to have been caused by a gas leak. The building where the explosion occurred was destroyed, the ministry said.

The blast shook a building adjoining Les Galeries Algériennes at 9 a.m., just as employees were arriving for work. Most of the injured, struck by flying glass, wood and metal, were in the department store.

Soldiers joined firemen with bulldozers attempting to clear the wreckage in a search for bodies. Part of the building where the explosion was reported to have occurred fell in and

Research on Hormones Gives Hint on How Aspirin Works

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — laboratories around the world has resulted in the isolation of 14 prostaglandins and the production of artificial chemical duplicates.

Three prostaglandins are found in every cell in the human body, he said, and their function appears to be to mobilize the body to cope with problems by stimulating inflammation, fever and pain.

The mystery about aspirin has been how it counteracts these three phenomena, Vane said, and research shows that aspirin and related compounds appear to curb prostaglandin output by 25 to 100 per cent, resulting in less inflammation, fever and pain.

Vane said the work of many storefronts in the area were shattered by the force of the blast.

Satellite Beams Camera on State for Land Use Study

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — An earth resources technology satellite launched Sunday is to focus its cameras on Wisconsin to help earth-bound scientists study land-use planning.

A research team at the University of Wisconsin is to receive photographs every 18 days as the satellite passes more than 500 miles above the state.

The satellite is expected to provide information on the percentage of land used for agriculture, forestry and urbanization.

"There is no question the information is going to be useful. It's a question of how useful it will be," Prof. James Clapp, head of the research team, said.

Clapp said the satellite should be able to discern objects as small as 200 feet on a side, somewhat coarser than the data land-use planners are accustomed to dealing with.

But he added the satellite

The O'Konski Enigma

Faithful to the pattern of unorthodox method that has been the distinguishing mark of his extensive political career, Rep. Alvin O'Konski of Rhinelander will again be listed on the ballot this year as a candidate for reelection to the House of Representatives where he has served for 15 terms.

Mr. O'Konski, whose secure 10th congressional district was extinguished this year and joined with others, and notably the seventh which is now held by Rep. David Obey of Wausau, has presented again the kind of enigma to prospective constituents that is familiar to others from observation of his style and tactics during three decades.

He circulated the nomination petitions required by Wisconsin law. He filed them in due time. They passed inspection by the election officers at Madison. Then he dispatched from Washington a telegram announcing his withdrawal that was filed there so tardily that it did not reach the desk of the addressee in Madison until the next day, which was too late under the rigid statutory conditions for renunciation. Consequently, O'Konski the non-candidate is nevertheless a candidate in legal fact and his name will be on the ballots of hundreds of precincts in the primary election in September together with that of youthful David Connor of Wausau, also a candidate for the Republican nomination to challenge Mr. Obey, a Democrat.

There was once a politician of considerable stature in the Midwest who was enormously fond of the word "prismatic," employed in the disparaging sense.

He would condemn a rival or hostile politician as a "prismatic rogue," and then explain matter-of-factly that worthlessness was apparent when he was viewed from any direction.

There are those who have followed his adventurous and not always consistent political career who may incline to use the word to describe the ingenious style and method of the dean of the Wisconsin delegation in the house of representatives. He has done in at the polls a long line of eager challengers, most of whom learned from their experience and did not return for further punishment. But most of them would also describe him as too clever by half, to borrow from the idiom of a favorite lady of Celtic persuasion.

Is Mr. O'Konski simply buying insurance against a defeat on the record, as he pondered reluctantly retirement from the halls of the congress at the peak of his career? His political life style and the less than persuasive explanations of his contradictory statements and acts of the last few months in relation to his candidacy tend to support the idea. Should he win, it would be a truly notable feat, considering all the circumstances. If he should fail to win, he is on the record as desiring to retire. If the last hurrah is coming, it will be in harmony with his uniquely ironical career and personality.

Japan Endangered by Pollution

Economically Japan has been a nation on the make since Commander Perry opened Tokyo to Western ideas in the 19th century. The industrial development of Japan has been especially noteworthy since the tragedy of overwhelming defeat in World War II. But, as in the United States and Europe, such progress has brought its own pitfalls.

The Director General of the Environment Agency, Buichi Oishi, has been campaigning to turn things around or at least to point the people in a different direction. It all sounds very familiar to Americans who have been aware of Earth Day, PCB in game fish, and a nose wrinkling odor from water and air.

The Environment Agency itself didn't come into existence until 1971 although a Basic Law on Pollution Prevention had been adopted in 1967. The streams and air in particular had become so clogged that a special session of the Diet was held late in 1970. Currently a bill is under consideration which would put liability for pollution upon the polluters even when they were without fault — that is they were not actually breaking a law or the pollution was accidental.

Mr. Oishi spoke at the United Nations Stockholm Conference on the Environment and naturally was somewhat idealistic as he backed the Declaration on the Human Environment, the establishment of the U. N. Environment Fund and the "protection of mankind's only world." But specifically Japan is concerned with the threat to the oceans of the world since Japan is an island nation and depends so much on the sea. It is also obvious that in this field there must be international standards on pollution and means of international enforcement.

Japan's experience with pollution has not only been the offensive air odor and dangers of contagion that inspire many urban Japanese to wear nose masks. There is the Itai-Itai disease, believed to be caused by cadmium waste and reasonably called the ouch-ouch. More serious was the Minamata disease, named after Minamata City where the discharge of mercury into the sea caused numerous deaths. The same sort of thing happened in Niigata Prefecture. It is more difficult in Japan than in the United States to tell the populace to limit fish consumption to about one meal a week. Not only are the Japanese in the habit of eating a great deal of fish, it has been a major source of protein in a nation where until recently at least other sources were in slim supply.

Since Japan no longer is in any sense an underdeveloped nation, pollution is being considered as a major threat. The leaders of the poor countries are more difficult to convince since to them a dirty river or foul air is a small inconvenience when deaths are commonplace from starvation and malnutrition a greater threat than bronchial infections.

But the Japanese experience is further proof of the dangers of uncontrolled industrial expansion and the importance of international cooperation.

The Fake Essay Story

The University of Wisconsin administration, which has shown a curious indifference to student plagiarism in meeting term paper requirements, and the astounding story of commercial traffic in such fakery has begun to respond.

The dean of students has reported that he has placed a "hold" on student credits and degrees when it is shown that the person involved was on the list of customers of the fake scholarship mills. Mr. Ginsberg also remarked that the decision to check the legitimacy of some students' grades as a result of the state's action against the term paper fabricators is a "horrendously large job." A response might be that if the university management had not remained indifferent to this widely publicized illustration of cynicism in the groves of academy, it would not now be such a formidable task to do something about it.

Looking Backward

Local Sun Rays for July Scene

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for July 20, 1872.

The past week has been favorable to ice cream vendors. The weather was uncomformably warm.

House flies have begun their annual raids.

New potatoes are seen in markets this week. Oats and corn are looking exceptionally well this season.

Boys are puckering their mouths with apples and other green fruit. The currant crop in this vicinity is very heavy.

Much of the barley, rye and most of the winter wheat in the county will be cut next week.

Appleton with its wealth of shade trees presents a charming appearance. A stroll at 5 o'clock these delightful mornings is one of the most healthful exercises imaginable. The beautiful moonlight evenings of the past week have enticed many to saunter forth and ramble.

The employees of our furniture factories are obliged to work extra hours to fill orders already received.

Russians Grow Industrially But Miss Agricultural Goals

By The Associated Press

The Soviet Union is pressing ahead with its new Five Year Plan, bolstered by an increase of 7.8 per cent in industrial production, but lagging in agricultural output.

Economic figures issued by the Soviet Central Statistical Board showed sizeable increases in industrial production for 1971, but the overall 7.8 per cent figure was below the 8.3 per cent growth in that field in 1970.

The Soviet figures also showed that 1971 could not match the bumper agricultural crop of 1970. The official announcement said agricultural production was "at the level of the record year of 1970," but it did not mention that the plan called for an increase of more than 5 per cent.

Grain Below Record
Soviet grain production was pegged at 181 million tons, a good year by Russian standards, but below the record 186.4 million tons of 1970.

The grain crop apparently was good enough to forestall any shortages, and the Soviet Union is buying additional fodder from abroad, but the figures indicated that shortages might develop in other areas.

Potato production was 92.3 million tons compared with 96.6 million tons in 1970. Vegetable output was placed at 20 million tons as compared to 20.3 million tons in 1970.

Increases in some other food items varied. Milk was up .4 of a per cent to 8.3 million tons. Meat production was up by 7 per cent to 13.1 million tons, and eggs were up ten per cent to 44.9 billion eggs.

The report showed that 1.14 million automobiles were produced in 1971 compared to 916,000 in 1970. But there was a decline in other items such as television sets which dropped from 5.8 million in 1970 to 5.2 million in 1971. Washing machine production dropped in the same period from 5.2 million units to 4.1 million.

Industrial Wages Up
The average industrial wage went up from 122 rubles — $146.40 — a month to 126 rubles or $151.20 in 1971.

The report said that consumer goods production was up 7.9 per cent while national income increased 6 per cent. Shortly after the support came out, the Soviet Communist Party Central Committee and the Council of Ministers called for more goods for the Russian consumer. They issued a resolution declaring that the ministries should "saturate the trade network with goods" and pay more attention to consumer demand.

Later, the government announced that as a concession to consumers, a 23-inch television set would be available for 340 rubles or 11 weeks salary for the average working Russian.

"Televisions are considered 'articles of primary necessity,'" said Pravda, the Communist party newspaper.

Roche Yearns for Place to Hide From Vacation Packing

BY JOHN P. ROCHE

If I were an Englishman, right now I would be at my club. As it is, I am hiding in a remote section of the house suffering from an advanced case of nervous shock. Tomorrow, you see, we are scheduled to leave on vacation. God willing, we will be on the 12:30 boat from Woods Hole to Vineyard Haven. This should be a cause for celebration, but the problem is that my wife has been packing.

Packing has always struck me as a simple enough business. I get out a couple of suitcases, open the dresser drawers, and throw in the contents. But for Connie, packing begins about a month before D-Day and is a most extraordinary exercise. The first step is to take a total inventory of our possessions. The woollens are put in moth-proof bags. Sounds easy, doesn't it? It seems to me it could be, but the question is which woollens should we keep and which should we give away? Before the bags are finally zipped up, each item has been subjected to thoughtful scrutiny: "Will I ever wear that again?"

Off With His Suit

My reply is to suggest that we just stick the stuff in the bags and worry about what to keep some other time, but this is viewed as shameful malingering on my part. If I had my way, the place would be full of old junk, nothing would ever be cleaned out, etc., etc. Probably true, so I humbly go over my suits and, to show that I am caught up in the proper inspiration, find an old one that can be disposed of.

OK, the woollens are taken care of. Next on the agenda is a full-scale reassessment of our summer clothes. And then shoes. And then medicines. And then, and then, and then... and then I hide. Oh Lord, here she comes

To resume... do you know what was on her mind? Would I leave detailed instructions for the friend who's going to cat-sit on how to run the bedroom air conditioner, the dispose-all, the dishwasher, etc. I pointed out that he was not an aborigine from New Guinea, but an assistant professor of political science who has grown up in modern America. I further noted that we were going to Martha's Vineyard, not Southeast Asia, and that if he had any problems, he could pick up the phone and call. She was not amused, but has settled down to go through all the recorder music in the house to decide which to take.

Another Dilemma
I realize I skipped a stage. Before she dug out all the recorder music, she had to decide which recorder to take: the soprano, the tenor or the alto. The soprano won out, but that didn't end the matter: should she take the

Wisconsin Report

Being Politician's Wife Isn't Easy as Many Can Affirm

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON The anguished outburst of Mrs. Gary Ann Maier, wife of the hard driving and ambitious mayor of Milwaukee, about the tribulations of the spouse of a ranking public official, or even a powerful party politician, will bring a thousand silent assents from the women in the households of the principal public men in this state and elsewhere.

Mrs. Maier's distressed complaints about her experiences have drawn considerable notice, perhaps in part because most journalists are aware of the frustrations and the disappointments and the pressures upon political spouses who have so few opportunities to recount them.

But the rarity of such incidents should mislead no one. Any reporter could name a score of examples out of his own experience about other ladies in political families who have endured in silence or who have only occasionally confided their hurts with the protection of confidentiality.

Some Breakups Avoided

Reasonably observant citizens can recall conspicuous examples of marital breakups involving Wisconsin political leaders. Those who are more intimately acquainted with the private lives of politicians know that others were narrowly avoided, and that some were avoided only with the retirement of the husband from the consuming pressures of public life.

The most demanding and enervating of the high elective offices are those involving executive responsibilities and with them, leadership of parties. Perhaps there were a few wives of modern governors who truly enjoyed the experience of living in the fish bowl that is the lot of the First Lady of Wisconsin, and according to witness Mrs. Maier, of the Milwaukee burgomaster's lady.

That is not to say that many of the others complained to any public degree. Nevertheless, their friends knew the strains and the sacrifices that were involved for most of those women, happy as most of them were as their husbands fulfilled their ambitions.

Children Often Targets

Those with young children found their political exposure especially difficult — which is surely one of the reasons why Gov. Lucey and his wife chose to send their children elsewhere to school when they moved in to occupy the fish bowl that is described to tourists as the executive mansion of the state of Wisconsin.

These reports have spanned a period during which 10 governors, half a dozen United States senators, and several dozens of members of the House of Representatives have been chosen by the people of Wisconsin. A greater number of aspirants have been rejected, some of them after long years of hopeful preparation for higher places.

Vignettes crowd the memory:

The tearful protest of one top politician's wife about the taunting of her young son in a school attended mostly by children of families of hostile political persuasion. The anxious question of a rising politician's wife, as she waited late at night in a lonely hotel lobby as her husband repeated his favorite speech for the 100th time in pursuit of the governorship: Do you think he'll ever make it? (He did, but many years later).

Wife Drove Car

The First Lady of Wisconsin who drove her husband to his campaign meetings to assure his timely return to his home, but who adamantly refused to sit on the platform with the fixed smile that is required of the campaigner's wife... The politician husband who regularly pinched his spouse's arm when she toured with him and her face grew cold with fatigue... The First Lady whose husband served four years as governor but never spent a night in the Madison executive residence... A more recent distaff tenant who regularly changed the unlisted telephone number in her desperate insistence upon some privacy.

One scarred veteran of Wisconsin politics insists that the time will come when bachelors only will be nominated for high office by parties in more sophisticated constituencies. Meanwhile, Henry Maier may have some slight compensation in an awareness that male colleagues in his trade understand the discomfiture of his wife.

Group Seeks Funds to Replace Stolen Articles

Editor, the Post-Crescent:
To the people of the Fox Valley:

A couple of weeks ago, there was an item in The Post-Crescent about a theft of about $600 worth of sound equipment from All Saints Episcopal Church, Appleton. Most of this equipment belonged to the group "Sing Out Fox Cities."

This group of young people worked long, hard hours to help pay for it. Besides working for themselves, they have done charitable things, such as collecting, sorting and selling rags for the benefit of Plamann School. They have had concerts throughout the valley, and are an eager bunch of young people, trying to help make a better people.

If you could see the willingness of those who belong to or have belonged to the group, to share their love of music, entertainment and purpose, you would know why the loss means so much to them. They put so much into their work — running, telephoning, practicing. They share a mutual love for music and for each other, a wonderful thing to see. Yet someone couldn't return that love just long to reconsider, and leave their equipment alone.

It seems no matter to the group's members that they have school and jobs to attend to — they still give everything they have to better others by bettering themselves and their work. Their sponsors, the Appleton Breakfast Optimists, know what a fine group they are, since the club has been behind Sing Out since it started four years ago.

If the public would like to see this group in action, and spend an enjoyable hour or so, come to AHS-East Sunday night, July 30, at 8:00. You can get tickets there, or from any member of the group. Come to "A Night for the People," and help them to regain some of the loss they suffered in the theft.

Attic Opens Tonight in Adult Satire-Comedy

'What Butler Saw' Set in Psychiatric Clinic; Mark Malinauskas Director

BY JINGO
A farce written by sharp-tongued playwright Joe Orton and definitely for adult audiences — opens at 8:15 tonight with a small but well-chosen Attic Theatre cast in Lawrence

Jingo
Music-Drama Center. Mark Malinauskas is the director.

The comedy, "What the Butler Saw," is set in the atmosphere of a psychiatric clinic. Jingo's been told this is a difficult comedy to achieve, but every one of the seven Attic actors have played before. Most have been with Attic Theatre and are well-known to Fox Cities audiences. Most have other roles to their credit with other theater groups.

James Auer plays the central role of Dr. Prentice, the man in whose clinic all the action transpires. An active participant in theater, Auer has appeared in past Attic productions of "Time of Your Life," "The Bad Seed," and "The Lady's Not For Burning." He also has worked with Neenah's Riverside Players, notably in the production of "The Diary of Anne Frank."

Prentice's wife is being played by Lorrie Johnson. The mother of three children, she brings to this role previous Attic work in "Teahouse of the August Moon," "Desk Set," "Annie Get Your Gun," "Music Man," and several other musicals.

Her view of "What the Butler Saw," tempered by the fact that she has written a number of plays herself, is that it is "unadulterated fun and completely innocent except when viewed or interpreted by inhibited adults."

Others in Cast
The only other female in the cast is Dr. Prentice's new secretary, Geraldine Barclay, played by a Drake University junior majoring in biology.

Lizbeth Smith is new to Attic Theatre, but was active at Appleton High School-East, where she appeared in "Skin of Our Teeth," "Midsummer Night's Dream," and "Bye Bye Birdie," among others. The greatest challenge for Miss Smith in "What the Butler Saw," by her own report, is playing a character so near her own age for a change.

Dr. Lippert Renamed UWU Journalism Head
OSHKOSH — Reappointment of Dr. David J. Lippert to a third three-year term as chairman of the journalism department of the school of Letters and Science has been announced by Chancellor Roger E. Gules of the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh.

The reappointment follows an election on the chairman post, by members of the journalism faculty and the recommendation of the dean of the School of Letters and Science, Dr. Arthur H. Darken.

Lippert formerly covered Wisconsin state government and politics as a newsman for the Milwaukee Sentinel. He has headed the journalism program since he came to the UWU in the fall of 1966, and also has served as director of student publications.

Fox Cities Up with People — Concert Sunday — At 8 p.m., Appleton High School-East Auditorium.

Vaudeville Theater, Kaukauna — Who Slew Auntie Roo? at 8 p.m. Sunday; matinee at 1:30 and 8 p.m.

Power of Persuasion Ended Thumb Sucking

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In your column recently you discussed thumbsucking.

I'd like to tell you how I cured my daughter. She's the youngest of four children and the only one who sucked her thumb. A couple of months before her fourth birthday, I said to her: "Soon you'll be four years old and you'll be a big girl. Then you can't suck your thumb anymore."

Thosteson

We never made a fuss about her thumbsucking, nor allowed anyone else to scold her.

Occasionally I would repeat that she would be a big girl on her birthday and couldn't suck her thumb anymore. Soon she was repeating this herself (thumb in mouth).

I wasn't really confident that this course of action would work and I planned to try another course later on if it didn't.

Her fourth birthday arrived and she gave me her satin quilt that she always fingered while thumb sucking. She absolutely never sucked her thumb again, and it had been an almost constant habit.

She's now a well-adjusted 13 year old and makes straight A grades. I don't know if this would work for everyone, but it sure did for us. — Mrs. C.C.

In most cases, the approach is as important as the method. In your case you probably used an effective approach to the problem. Whether facing a child with a deadline of that kind would always work is another question.

But I'm happy to pass along your experience to other readers.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I make a cranberry relish to serve with chicken dinners. My family has enjoyed eating this until my husband found out there were two whole oranges in this relish. He claims that the orange skins contain some very harmful ingredients and refuses to eat my relish. What is in orange skins and is it really harmful to humans? — Mrs. B.R.

Your relish sounds as harmless as it undoubtedly is delicious. Skins contain bio-flavonoids, whose function is similar to that of vitamin C. They are not harmful.

If this doesn't convince your husband, confront him with a label from any commercial jar of orange marmalade which contains orange skins and is mighty popular around my own breakfast table. Eat on.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: In the past several months I have heard about two people who lost a kidney because of tuberculosis. Please explain. They both had them removed and seem to be in very good health — Mrs. R.K.

Although tuberculosis of the lung is the most common type of TB, it is possible for the germ to be disseminated through other organs such as the kidneys.

Where removal of the kidney is indicated, the patients usually continue on to lead healthy lives with a single kidney.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it harmful to a child's ear to pull on it to discipline him? — F.L.S.

Given the delicate mechanism of the ear, the answer is an unqualified yes. If you feel you must resort to some physical manifestation of disapproval, I'd advise you to seek out some more sturdy portion of the anatomy — such as the bottom

Federal Grant
Approved for Town of Dale

$130,000 Authorized
For Plant, Sewers
In Village Proper

The Town of Dale has received approval of a federal grant that opens the way for its plans to install sewer lines and build a sewage plant to serve the unincorporated village portion of the town.

Word came Wednesday that the $130,700 Environmental Protection Agency grant had been approved for the project.

That grant apparently represents 55 per cent of the cost of the treatment plant. The village project also calls for $118,000 in state Outdoor Recreation Act Program funds, $72,000 in a Farmers Home Administration funds and a $56,000 local contribution. Some $18,000 already has been collected in local funds.

Wilmar Sommer, town board chairman, said the total sewer pipeline and treatment plant project would cost about $480,000.

Sommer said that the project involves providing sewer pipeline throughout the unincorporated village area, plus about a half-mile around the fringe to handle the anticipated growth of the area. The town has about 1,600 persons, with about 400 to 500 living in the new sewage district area.

The treatment plant, expected to cost $248,000, will be located on the southeastern fringe of the village, on the Frank Hanselman property, Sommer said. It will be built large enough to handle present and future needs, he explained.

The project is expected to be completed by late 1973, a few months past the deadline that the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has set for the town.

Wilmar Sommer, town chairman, said that he believed the project would be far enough along so that the DNR would grant the town the extension of the deadline. "I'm sure of it," he said.

The town was issued DNR abatement orders in July of 1971, including a requirement to have plans and specifications ready by early this year. These timetables were met, Sommer said.

Sommers also said there was a sewage commission formed in June of 1971 and it has final authority on setting up the project and operating the sanitary district.

A Green Bay engineering firm, Phillips and Associates, is handling the drawing work.

Sommer said he hoped that bidding could be conducted soon and construction could start this fall.

Motors Taken From Anchored Boats

OSHKOSH — Two outboard motors chained to boats anchored at a dock on Cowling Bay Road, Neenah, were stolen early Thursday morning. Both motors were detached by cutting the chains on the boats.

A nine and one half horse power Evinrude motor was taken from a boat belong to Elaine Juneau, 352 Cowling Bay Road. The motor was valued at $200.

A 20 H.P. Mercury motor was taken from a boat belonging to Harold Mueller, 930 Diane St., Neenah. Mueller's boat was anchored behind the Juneau boat. His motor was valued at $550.

Don Secor, 22, formerly of Appleton, is the newest member of the Clintonville Police Department. He is a graduate of the two year course in police science at the Fox Valley Technical Institute. He was employed at Prange's Appleton, while attending school. Secor, who is single, started work July 24. (Laib Photo)

Menasha's Jefferson Park along the Fox River was relatively quiet Friday afternoon but it will be a different story today and Sunday. More than 100 stock runabout and hydroplane drivers invade the area for the third annual Fox River Valley Outboard Championships sponsored by the Menasha Fire Fighters Association. Races begin at 1 p.m. both days and will continue through late afternoon. Several former national champions are in the field. A dance also is planned tonight. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Armstrong Bleacher
Bids in at $65,700

NEENAH—Bids for bleachers at the new Armstrong High School Fieldhouse were opened Thursday and a $65,700 contract was awarded to the lowest bidder, Dan Frey Co., Cambridge, Wis., distributor for Hussey bleachers. Other bidders were School Equipment Consultants, Milwaukee, $66,633; McGart Co., St. Louis, $69,906 and Coleman School Supply, Coleman, Wis., $70,880.

The Hussey bleachers will come equipped with a unique air flotation device. According to Neenah school business manager, James Clark, typical bleachers which are moved from place to place via casters could damage the synthetic fieldhouse floor. However, the Hussey bleachers will be lifted from the floor by an air compression unit-hose hookup. The bleachers will be moved on a thin layer of air. Conceivably, Clark said, one man could move an entire bleacher unit without damaging the floor.

The bleachers will provide seating for 3,600 people. One unit will be mounted against the north wall of the fieldhouse. All three units fold up to provide more room when not in use.

In other business, the finance committee selected the firm of Boettcher and Ginnow, Inc., as architects for the addition to Gillingham School.

60-Day Jail Term
On Traffic Charge

OSHKOSH — Dale Eisner, 23, of 1700 W. Snell Road, was sentenced to 60 days in the county jail for driving after revocation of his drivers license Friday.

Eisner pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge James V. Sitter Friday morning. He will serve the sentence with Huber Law work privileges.

He was cited at 12 56 a.m. Friday.

Another local firm, Shattuck, Siewert and Associates, also came under consideration. The committee selected Boettcher and Ginnow in order "to accomplish a fair distribution of business," according to committee member Nile Emmrich.

The finance committee also resolved to make recommendation to the board that the Neenah Park and Recreation Department be allowed to use its own personnel for supervision when a school building is in use.

Board policy states that any group utilizing a school building be responsible for costs incurred for having a maintenance man on the premises.

In a letter to the board, the park and recreation department noted that such costs would strain their budget.

The finance committee will recommend to the board that policy be waived on a trial basis and the city department be allowed to provide its own supervision. If proper supervision is not maintained, the privilege will be rescinded.

Dear Heloise:

This is what my husband and I will do to help eliminate confusion on our next move.

We will "assign" each room in the new house a color — nothing subtle either, only bright colors such as red, green, blue, purple, etc.

As we pack each box, it will be labeled as to contents and a very large spotch (at least four inches square) will be put on all four sides and the top of the box.

Corresponding colors will also be assigned to all the furniture that goes in that particular room and so tagged.

On moving day, or even ahead of time if possible, each room will have a large card of its assigned color attached to the door jamb.

The movers will then just have to glance at each box to know what room to put it in.

When I am ready to unpack, half the work will already be done because everything will be in the intended room.

Patricia J. Welsh

Sounds as if you have everything well in hand. With your system you can't lose.

Dear Heloise: Don't throw away worn-out suede desert boots — the leather is still good.

Since a lot of young people are wearing sew-on appliques on their pants, etc., I think the patches cut out of suede would look real good.

Larry Eubank

LETTER OF THOUGHT Dear Heloise:

Here are some tips for families looking for homes.

Consider access to the kitchen from the garage — unless you enjoy lugging groceries up long flights of stairs, and through long halls.

Is there space for a freezer? Frozen food is here to stay.

Will the utility room accommodate washer, dryer, ironing board, sewing apparatus, etc.? Everyone needs someplace to do all the mending and ironing, and all the washing and drying.

It is shocking that so many new, expensive, innovative houses are unworkable on these basic points. Perhaps more women should be active in home design.

What do you think?

Alice Krouse

Escapes Injury
Coal Cave-in Buries Man

MENASHA — Bill Barker, 50, of route 4, Appleton was treated for minor injuries at Theda Clark Hospital after he was buried in coal in a railroad car at about 10:45 a.m. Friday at the fine grain coal and completely buried.

Other employees, including secretaries from the office, worked frantically scratching coal away from the hopper, and with the help of police and ambulance crews succeeded in bringing Barker out through the chute at the bottom of the car.

Barker, who was able to breathe some during the ordeal because the coal was wet, suffered only a bruise to his left ing something on the inside of the car when another employee of the utility opened a hopper on the bottom of the car, and Barker was sucked down into the fine grain coal and completely buried.

A fire department ambulance crew was on the scene for eight minutes, and used a hydraulic racking device to open the coal chute wider, and administered oxygen to Barker when he was brought out. He was still conscious at that time, firemen said.

The gun is valued at $160.

The Girls' Olympics will top the events of the week of July 1 for the Appleton Recreation Department. The olympics will be held Monday at the Appleton High School-East Football field and track.

Tuesday the parks will focus on shoes in "clodhopper contests." Ribbons will be awarded for the most sophisticated, largest, tiniest, holiest, newest, oldest, most comfortable, coolest, cleanest, and most colorful shoes in the park. The day will be judged at the game.

Friday practice will continue for the Ford Motor Co. Punt, Pass, and Kick Contest to be held in the fall. Ages eligible for the contest are 8-13.

Thursday night the youngsters will visit Goodland field to see cases between January and mid-July, 1972. Hall said, compared with 89 cases in 1971.

The incidence of animal rabies cases in Wisconsin follows a national trend upward in recent years and stressed the need for a more active immunization program for dogs, Hall said.

MENASHA — City employee labor groups have notified city officials that they are ready to begin contract negotiations on 1973 contracts, and third ward Ald. tee will still face the requests have more on their minds than wages.

The firemen, for example, want a more liberal interpretation of residency requirements.

Police are seeking a change in work schedules. And the Street Department employees' group wants recognition of an agency shop in that department.

Bond Reduced
In Oshkosh
Stabbing

OSHKOSH — Grady Ellis, 57, of 106 Ceape Ave., the man accused of conduct regardless of life in the stabbing of an Oshkosh man, was bound over to Circuit Court for trial Thursday.

Bond of $25,000 was reduced to $1,500 on motion by Ellis's attorney.

Ellis appeared on a preliminary examination before Judge James V. Sitter in Winnebago County Court Branch 3. He is accused of stabbing Harvey Ehrigott, 30 of 821 Ridge Lane after the men disagreed on the payment of a bill at George Webb's Hamburger Parlor, 452 N. Main St., Oshkosh.

Both men were eating in the restaurant at about 2 a.m. July 17 and Ellis left without paying the bill.

Ehrigott followed Ellis outside the restaurant and told him to go back and pay. Ellis allegedly stabbed him.

No trial date has been set.

Pistol Stolen
From Locked Car
At Horsefeather

OSHKOSH — A 357 magnum Col. pistol was stolen from the glove compartment of a car belonging to Scott Swarner, the assistant manager at the Horsefeather Bar, Strobe Island, Thursday evening.

Swarner told Winnebago County deputies that the pistol was locked in the glove compartment of his locked car and both locks were forced. The car was parked at the Horsefeather. The gun is valued at $160.

The new negotiating committee will still face the requests for higher wages from employees, but federal wage guidelines that set a minimum increase limit of 5.5 per cent annually could make settlement in that area easier in 1973.

But in other areas, employee groups indicate they will bargain as hard as ever.

Patrolmen members of Local 34, Menasha Professional Policemen's Association, want a change in a work schedule that they say requires them to work one, six-day week each month.

5-Day Week

They want a straight, five-day work week, with no exception. They have made the request in years past, but the city has declined. This year, it could be a principle bargaining point.

A representative for Local 1035, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, which represents the street crews, was the only employee group which said wages would be the dominant item in negotiations this year.

Also on that employee group's list, however, will be recognition of an agency shop in the street department. The group hopes to begin negotiations after Sept. 1.

Negotiators for Local 695, Menasha Professional Firefighters Association, AFL-CIO, promise to battle hard for better fringe and non-salary benefits.

Agency Shop

They want designation of an agency shop, a change in health insurance carriers and permission for an individual fireman — when it will not hurt his ability to get to the department in an emergency — to live outside of the city limits.

"That'll be a battle," predicted one union leader.

The city passed an ordinance in 1972 that prohibits city employees, with some exceptions, from living outside of the city. Even before that, the city had an ordinance on the books that prohibited protective personnel (firemen and policemen) from living outside the city.

"Everybody else (other cities) has allowances to live outside municipal boundaries, so I don't see why we can't," said the Local 695 representative.

Clear Policy

The 1972 residency ordinance was passed after a fireman made a request to move outside of the city and some aldermen said the city had not formulated a clear policy on the subject.

There are provisions in the ordinance that allow for exceptions, but officials have indicated that those exceptions will be infrequently granted.

The Local 695 representative indicated his union would be willing to have the Wisconsin Employment Commission (WERC), decide the validity of the local residency requirement if a settlement can't be reached during negotiations this year.

Wisconsin Has
Rabies Increase

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The number of rabies cases in Wisconsin this year has already surpassed the total recorded for 1971. University of Wisconsin veterinarian R.E. Hall said Friday.

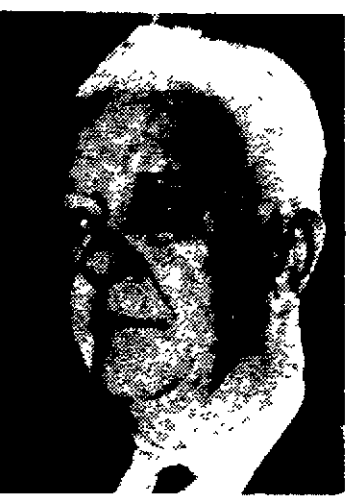

Figures compiled by the state laboratory of hygiene show 90 cases between January and mid-July, 1972. Hall said, compared with 89 cases in 1971.

The incidence of animal rabies cases in Wisconsin follows a national trend upward in recent years and stressed the need for a more active immunization program for dogs, Hall said.

Dohr Is Leaving His Mark

Raymond P. Dohr

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Judge Raymond P. Dohr has been part of two major innovations in Outagamie County's judicial system.

He was the county's first corporation counsel, being named by the county board in December, 1949. He assumed the new post Jan. 1, 1950, to handle the county's civil legal affairs.

And he was the first judge of Outagamie County Court

Last of Series

Branch 3, which was created in 1961.

But Dohr's record of service to the county dates back even farther. He was appointed district attorney in 1934 and was elected to full, two-year terms in 1937 and 1939.

Dohr has to retire Monday because he is 70 years old. He hopes to find several reserve judge appointments to help ease into full retirement. He feels part-time work will be easy to find because of the big case-loads in many of the courts.

Juvenile Work

Dohr, whose principal duties in Branch 3 included juvenile cases and small claims work, will be succeeded by R. Thomas Cane, 33, assistant district attorney since 1969. Cane, an interim appointee of Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, takes office Tuesday.

Dohr was admitted to the Wisconsin bar in 1925.

He entered military service in 1940 and went overseas in 1942. He participated in the African campaign, took part in invasions of Italy and France and fought in Germany and Austria.

His battle stars numbered six and he earned several medals, including the purple heart, for wounds suffered at Cassino, and the medal for bravery.

Dohr became the first corporation counsel north of Milwaukee County. Since then many other counties have followed suit.

He was county GOP chairman in 1952 and 1953, and was president of the Outagamie County Bar Association. He was active in Rotary and Elks. After World War II he helped organize the 32nd Division of the Wisconsin National Guard, in which he held the rank of lieutenant colonel.

Ready to Retire

Dohr said he was "ready to retire" and he agreed the mandatory retirement age should be 70 for Wisconsin judges.

He also saw the need for a fourth county judge, a proposal forwarded as a solution to easing the case overloads in local courts.

Dohr's court has been one of those that experienced a case jam up. He said that besides juvenile cases, he has had to handle many Circuit Court type litigations of a civil nature.

Dohr, in response to question, thought it was desirable to have a judge doing only juvenile court work. "You've got to do a lot of work with children to get them through the rough areas," he exclaimed.

The late Judge Stanley Staidl handled the juvenile cases before Branch 3 court was created by the State Legislature.

Dohr could be remembered as a soft-spoken magistrate who would send a boy or girl to an institution only if there was no place else.

"Sometimes I think I was too easy," he told this reporter, "but I don't think it hurt anything."

Student Aid Programs Seek Huge Hike in Tax Fundind

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A $43.1 million budget has been requested for student aid programs and their administration during the coming biennium by the State Higher Educational Aids Board.

The request, marking a whopping 63 per cent increase in proposed state tax funding and a 33 per cent overall increase in the state and federal programs, will be forwarded to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey for consideration before the proposed 1973-75 budget is presented to the legislature next spring.

The proposed budget, approved Friday by HEAB, marks a jump from the current $32.3 million state-federal spending level of the 1971-73 biennium.

The half dozen year old agency, which started by administering a few million dollars in student aid programs, asked for state tax funding totaling $18.1 million, a jump of $7 million over the current level of state tax spending.

New Program
James Jung, staff head of the agency, said that the state tax spending hike actually represented a net increase for new programs of only $4.1 million or 37 per cent because of the built in budget increases caused by inflationary trends and traditional guaranteed spending increases.

The overall budget, combining state and federal spending, would climb $10.8 million in the 1973-75 biennium from the current $32.3 million level. The HEAB proposal calls for $7 million of the $10.8 million hike to come directly from state taxpayers; the remainder would come from federal revenues and receipts of the agency on past loans and similar programs.

The board also voted to "vigorously" resist a proposal being made to the Merger Implementation Committee that the University of Wisconsin Systems board of regents be given veto power over HEAB decisions.

Merger Committee
The merger committee was created by the law which merged the two state public university systems last fall. The recommendation, coming from a subcommittee of the merger group, is the outgrowth of considerable opposition within the UW System to new policies adopted by the HEAB during the past 18 months, which regents and UW System administrators contend have taken educational decisions out of the hands of UW System personnel and handed them to HEAB.

Basic budget decisions made by HEAB include:

— An agreement to cut base costs by $50,000 per year during the coming biennium to meet Lucey's demand for productivity savings.

— The listing of an educational manpower development program as the lowest priority program of HEAB, followed by the state tuition reimbursement program, to meet another Lucey budget demand.

— A proposal that HEAB guarantee all loans made under the state direct loan program, and that insurance costs be paid by students as a "user fee," to meet another Lucey demand.

— A decision not to seek additional lending authority, based on the estimate that current lending authorization is sufficient to cover direct loan requests in the coming two years.

— A $100 per semester hike in the size of maximum grants made under the tuition grant programs, bring costs to $1.5 million for the biennium.

Interstate Agreements

— The creation of a $1 million state work-study program the second year of the biennium.

— The release of up to $500,000 to cover costs of students involved in interstate compact agreements, including students in Northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan.

— A switch to concentrate one third of higher educational grant funds in the junior and senior years, rather than concentrating all of it on the first two years of college education. This move was one of the items which triggered the fight with UW System administrators.

— A request for staff increases, including three additional bill collectors to seek repayment of loans.

UW Admits Violating Statutes on Purchasing

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The University of Wisconsin has violated laws on purchasing and construction with the full knowledge of authorities charged with reviewing the deals, UW officials report.

The UW sidestepped statutes on several occasions when it thought it was "in the public interest," Robert Gentry, associate to UW vice president and controller Reuben Lorenz, said Friday.

Two state bureau officials responsible for reviewing purchasing transactions denied statutory procedures had been ignored with their knowledge.

"The big questions have been a matter of interpretation," purchasing director John Short said. His bureau must approve requests before agencies are allowed to buy goods or services.

Short said his bureau has had a policy of approving requests of less than $3,000 even when the request was one of several involving the same project.

"The question is," he said, "what constitutes one transaction?"

Review Before Payment

Bureau of Finance director John F. Rogan said his staff has approved no purchase contracts which it knew violated statutes.

The finance bureau gives a final review to purchase vouchers before the state pays its bills.

Circumvention of the law by a number of state agencies was disclosed earlier this week in a report by the Legislative Audit Bureau.

The bureau submitted the report to Gov. Patrick J. Lucey and recommended "immediate corrective action."

UW was cited a number of times. The bureau said UW made "extensive use" of an add-on procedure to sidestep a 1929 law requiring sealed bids for purchasing contracts of more than $3,000.

In one case, the audit bureau said, UW purchased $133,000 in food products in fiscal 1970-71 without taking bids. It paid for the products in separate installments of less than $2,900, the bureau said.

No Deceit Intended

"There was no intent here to deceive," Gentry said. "These things were done with the full knowledge of the officials."

The audit bureau cited at least two construction projects at UW-Oshkosh and one at UW-Platteville which had been contracted in violation of a state law requiring Lucey's approval of projects costing more than $2,500.

The two Oshkosh projects also violated a law requiring State Building Commission approval of construction costing more than $15,000, the bureau added.

"There have been examples in the past which we acknowledge," Gentry said, "A matter of emergency occasionally arises where there is no other way to get this done without bending the rules a little."

"The governor is a very busy man, and it's not always possible to get quick approval from him," he said.

Laws Outdated

Gentry said laws are bulky and outdated, causing frustration and sometimes economic disadvantages by long delays.

Asked if UW had ever tried to propose new legislation instead of working around existing laws, Gentry said it has not.

"I would guess that we've not been aggressive enough in this area," he said.

Gentry said UW officials met with the audit bureau before the report was made public, and agreed to stop actions which don't conform with law.

"You can make the general statement that we have reached an agreement that we will make changes consistent with the audit bureau's recommendations," he said.

Revise Statutes

Gentry said he felt the statutes should be revised to require the governor's approval of construction only when it would cost more than $10,000.

He said the state director or purchasing should be authorized to exempt from gubernatorial approval certain minor construction requests.

Although Short denied his bureau had knowingly approved illegal transactions, he said certain purchases may not have been reported to his office at all.

"Looking at the size of the figures involved in some transactions in the audit bureau's report," Short said, "I feel we certainly would have taken action if we knew about them."

In other cases, Short said, the purchasing bureau approved transactions which had been open to bidding although there was no "highly formalized, sealed-bid procedure."

In other cases, the bureau approved add-on purchasing because the purchases were spread over such a long period throughout the country on the subject of site criteria."

Back to Detention

An Appleton youth who has spent much of his teen-age life in institutions, learned Friday afternoon that he is headed for another one.

The 16-year-old, who had been in juvenile detention, appeared in Outagamie County Juvenile Court and pleaded guilty of taking a station wagon owned by Donald Schwab, 802 W. Spring St., on May 5; the theft of a battery and other items from the Schwab car; aiding and abetting in the burglary of the James O'Connell home, 1625 1/2 N. Oneida St., on May 5; aiding and abetting in the theft of a safe containing $1,050 from the home; aiding and abetting in damaging the safe by cutting off the door; entering a Karras Vending Co. truck May 7; stealing 70 packs of gum from the truck; burglarizing a garage at 2712 N. Viola St., July 20, and the theft of a motorcycle from the garage.

Committed Himself

A detective said the boy walked away from Winnebago State Hospital on May 21. He had committed himself to the hospital for drug abuse treatment. Police located the boy in Appleton last week.

The boy made his first appearance in Juvenile Court in 1968 at which time he was placed on supervision. A year later he was found delinquent, his custody was transferred to the state and he was sent to the State School for Boys at Wales. He has been in other institutions, police said.

The boy told Judge Raymond P. Dohr, "I was doing a fairly decent job for a while. I managed to stay out longer than in the past. I don't know if it will do any good, but I think I've learned."

Dohr said he'd like to help the boy, but the youth already is under custody of the state, so he had to remand him to his parole agent.

Dohr found the youth delinquent again and ordered him returned to juvenile detention pending what probably will be his transfer to Lincoln by parole officials.

Marijuana Found in Knapsack

A stolen bicycle investigation about noon Friday led Appleton police to 11 bags of marijuana.

A 17-year-old Appleton boy, who police said is on parole from Lincoln State School for Boys, was placed in juvenile detention on a charge of possession of marijuana with intent to sell.

Police said the boy was picked up at City Park and brought to the police station for questioning in regard to a bicycle theft.

Police, after noticing a package of cigarette paper in his shirt pocket, asked him what he had in the knapsack he was carrying. He said the sack contained 11 ounces of marijuana. Police said the substance was in 11 small plastic bags. The boy also was carrying a sleeping bag when taken into custody.

Taking Typing Lessons isn't the usual way for junior high school boys and girls to spend summer vacations, but about 20 are walking around today with that knowledge. Janet Rine and Peter Hurst concentrate on their lessons during the summer school session at St. Thomas More Catholic School. The program, staffed by eight Franciscan Sisters, also offered reading and had an enrollment of 63. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Citizen Help Sought in Police Station Selection

Appleton Mayor James P. Sutherland has broadened his appeal to the community to help select a site for a new police station.

Sutherland, chairman of his recently created Police Station Site Criteria Advisory Committee, this week sent letters to several hundred citizens, soliciting their participation and support in finding a suitable site.

He indicated he is particularly interested in determining criteria that should be utilized in selecting a site.

His special committee has the task but, said Sutherland, "we have found... there is very little information available throughout the country on the subject of site criteria."

Materials sent to the citizens included minutes of two past committee meetings, information on the composition and operation of the committee and guidelines on how the public can make recommendations concerning site criteria.

Committee meetings are open to the public, Sutherland explained in the letters, and correspondence should be addressed to the site criteria advisory committee, in care of Post Office Box 69, City Hall.

Sutherland also announced an informal public hearing on the site criteria issue will be held at 7 p.m. Aug. 8 at City Hall.

In a related development, Sutherland said that the Citizens Police Reserve and the Appleton Area Jaycees have each contributed $250 for the reproduction and dissemination of information concerning the selection of site criteria.

"The information project is moved in heavy equipment to directed toward obtaining the repair the damage, and police viewpoints of Appleton citizens rerouted traffic to the lower concerning site factors," Sutherland said.

The donation is being used to reproduce committee minutes and distribute them to citizens.

Sutherland's committee will adopt recommendations concerning the criteria to be used in actual site selection. The committee is not investigating specific sites.

Derailed Freight Car Blocks Road

KAUKAUNA — Thilmany Road was blocked off at 10:15 a.m. Friday after a Chicago & North Western freight car derailed at the intersection.

The gondola loaded with pulp logs, traveling north, plowed tracks loose at the crossing, broke concrete and steel rails, and jarred into a stack of pulp logs.

The railroad immediately moved in heavy equipment to repair the damage, and police rerouted traffic to the lower mill of the Thilmany Pulp and Paper Co. on Elm Street.

Bay Algae Growth Is Dangerously Extensive

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Scientists report algae growth is more extensive than ever in Lake Michigan's Green Bay this summer.

Working under a University of Wisconsin program, Vanderhoeve and UW biochemist and this should be corrected as Robert Burris have been studying Green Bay algae for three years, taking water samples weekly at 14 sites from the bay goes too far mouth of the Fox to Sturgeon downhill, it will be very difficult and expensive to reverse the slide," he added.

Burris said installation of the new lev more complete waste treatment of algae growth has been systems by industries and municipalities along the river and discharges, apparently coming bay would help the problem. from industries along the Fox.
